

FIRING AT POLICE

WOUNDED AND COMING DOWN

CONDITION IS CRITICAL

King of the Hill With Nowhere to Go

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The young man strode high atop the bridge, at once defiant and pathetic, a king of the hill with nowhere to go but down.

"Come down, we won't hurt you," police pleaded.

The response came from the tiny pistol in his hand. Barely visible, it popped twice, shattering the windshield of a patrol car, and police pressed against the cars and wagons behind which they took cover.

More than 80 times Robert Michniak squeezed the trigger on his .25 caliber automatic, randomly it seemed, at the faceless policemen below the bridge surface, at passing boats in the Allegheny River, then, finally, at his own head. His horrified family, 90 miles away, watched television as the drama unfolded.

Michniak, 22, married and the father of a five-month-old daughter, was carried from the bridge superstructure by police Thursday after his hour-long, one-man duel in the hot June sun.

He underwent 2½ hours of surgery at Allegheny General Hospital for removal of the bullet and bone fragments from his head. His condition was listed as guarded and he was given a 50-50 chance to survive.

Michniak, a native of Bethesda, Ohio, enrolled in an electronics school here two months ago. He was receiving federal assistance because of a medical discharge from the Air Force.

At noon Thursday, he asked his instructor for the rest of the day off. "He said he wasn't feeling well," the instructor said. Three hours later, he climbed up the catwalk of the Seventh Street Bridge and began firing the gun aimlessly. As police converged on the bridge, he made no attempt to conceal himself, standing in full view of expert marksmen who could have cut him down effortlessly. Silently, he seemed to be daring the police to kill him.

But they were under orders of Police Supt. James W. Slusser not to shoot.

Whether by design or destiny, he hit no one, even though there were plenty of targets. Several thousand persons gathered, inexplicably, on the streets in a four-block area to watch the action. Thousands more peered from nearby office buildings. Countless others viewed it live on a local television station.

Forty-five minutes into the ordeal, Michniak started down off the bridge. He got a third of the way, opened fire again, then returned to the top to view the entranced audience, pausing occasionally to wipe the sweat from his brow, to smoke a last cigarette, then to sit on a girder across the archway of the bridge.

Fifteen, then 20 minutes elapsed and he sat there, unmoving, oblivious to the pleas of police and a Roman Catholic priest. Almost on cue, all fell silent. Michniak raised the gun to his right temple. "Pop."

He lurched backward. A helicopter from a local radio station hovered overhead and reported he was lying motionless. Police climbed a fire-truck ladder and carried him down.

Ninety miles to the southwest, in Bethesda, Michniak's mother, two brothers and a sister watched their television sets helplessly as he put the gun to his head. "Oh, no. Oh, no. I think he must have shot himself. He just slumped over. Oh, good Lord," his mother, Mrs. Frank Michniak, cried over the telephone.

The Press Conference

Nixon: 'We Will Withdraw More'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says he holds out hope for massive troop withdrawals from Vietnam by the end of 1970 and that his efforts to bank the nation's inflationary fires will start having an effect within two or three months.

Nixon, in a wideranging, 32-minute news conference Thursday, also touched on the outcome of municipal elections in New York City, his missile defense system and who ordered a wiretap of Dr. Luther King's telephone.

But Vietnam was Topic A of his first nationally televised and broadcast meeting with newsmen since April 18.

Asked about a proposal by former Democratic Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford that 100,000 U.S. combat troops be pulled out of Vietnam by the end of the year, and that all combat ground forces withdraw by the end of 1970, Nixon said: "As far as how many will be withdrawn by the end of this year, or the end of next year, I would hope that we could beat Mr. Clifford's timetable . . ."

At the June 8 Midway summit meeting between Nixon and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, an initial plan was made to pull out 25,000 Americans later this summer. "We will withdraw more," Nixon told his news conference, promising another review of the situation in August.

When asked to assess the troubled economy, the chief executive said actions taken by his administration "will begin to have effect within a matter of two to three months" in cooling off the inflation spiral. But he added, rather ominously:

"If our projection proves to be wrong, then we will have to look to other courses of action, because we cannot allow prices to continue to go up, interest to go up, and the other factors . . . to continue."

He did not elaborate but Secretary of the Treasury David M.

Kennedy suggested last week that wage-price controls might be sought should the situation get out of hand, although the White House said there are no plans for such action at this time.

North Vietnamese troops have pulled back from their drive into Tay Ninh City. Meanwhile, the Paris Peace Talks recorded one of their longest negotiating sessions. Stories on page 24.

Asked for his reading of victories by generally conservative candidates for mayor of Los Angeles and Minneapolis, and similar upsets by conservative forces in both the Republican and Democratic primaries for mayor of New York, Nixon jabbed at his Adam's apple and said:

"This is the message that comes through rather loud and clear from these elections: the American people in our cities, in our small towns, and in this country are fed up to here with violence and lawlessness and they want candidates who will take a strong stand against it. I think that is the message for the candidates in the future."

While saying the people are voting against lawlessness, the President declared:

"I do not believe the great majority of the American people in our cities are anti-Negro. I do not believe they are anti-poor or anti-welfare, or reactionary, or members of hate groups."

On the major military controversy of 1969—whether to authorize a Nixon-sponsored Safeguard antiballistic missile system—the President said flat out:

"We will win the fight on Safeguard. It will not be necessary to compromise."

This was a firmer forecast of the administration's voting strength in the Senate on this divisive issue than any uttered previously by Nixon or Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

Nixon said intelligence, received since he recommended Safeguard, indicates the Soviet Union is testing a new multi-warhead offensive missile that, if made fully operational, could wipe out 80 per cent of the United States' Minuteman missile sites by 1973.

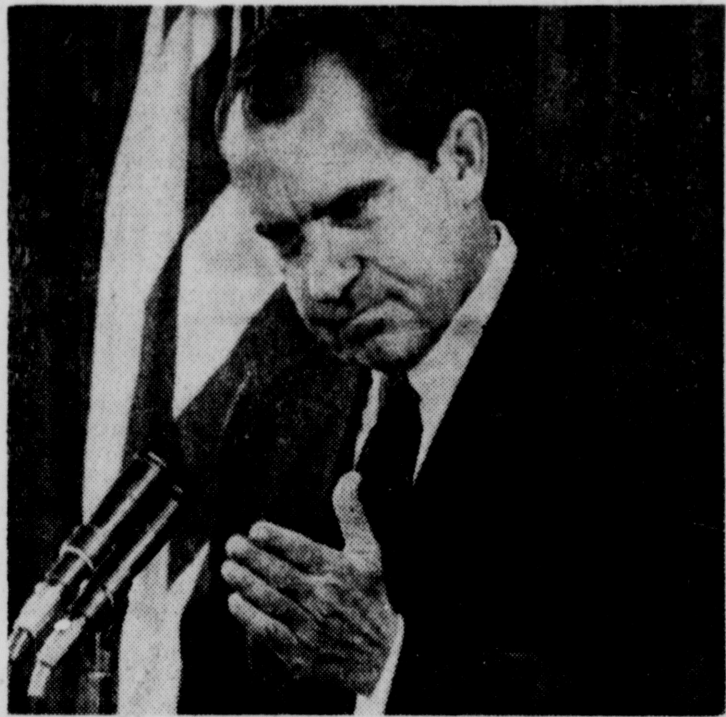

As to Vietnam, the President said:

"He can cite no public evidence that serious peace talks are beginning in Paris but asserted, 'I am not pessimistic about the outcome.'"

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, has orders to "conduct this war with a minimum of American casualties."

"A Vietnam cease-fire, urged by some critics, would be welcomed—but only if supervised to make sure the Communists

Uptown, Downtown Gains Listed by Renewal Agency

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency issued a progress report today on its two projects, Uptown and Downtown, revealing that:

• A $185,000 demolition contract for both projects will begin on July 1.

• The Forbes-Wallace Company has expressed renewed interest in building a 100,000 square foot department store on North Front Street.

• A developer has expressed the desire to build a high-rise upper income apartment house on the corner of North Front Street and Washington Avenue.

Bids were opened on the demolition of approximately 130 buildings, both Uptown and downtown, on June 9. Low bidder was Rochester-Atlas Wrecking Company of Rochester at $185,000. Work will begin July 1 and continue to the end of the year, substantially completing demolition work, Downtown.

The Forbes-Wallace Company outlined its tentative plans for a new department store on North Front Street with two levels of 50,000 square feet each. The company indicated that it needs a minimum of 100 feet frontage on North Front. Action on that project hinges on the building of a parking structure on the site of the old Montgomery Ward Building.

The agency is meeting with its engineers on Tuesday to work out final specifications for the letting of bids. The original bids on the garage came in over a million dollars above estimate and were rejected.

The agency will let design competition bids with the hope of building a 400-car garage in the neighborhood of $800,000.

Forbes-Wallace has indicated that it would be interested in building in Kingston only if an indoor garage were available.

James G. Connors, executive director of the urban renewal agency, did not reveal the name of the interested developer of high rise apartments on the corner of North Front Street and Washington Avenue, but he noted that high interest rates are posing some problem with the prospective developer. Connors said the developer is working on a method to construct the building at less cost.

Council Approves UR Area Developer

KINGSTON

"It all came about because of city hall Downtown," the chairman of the Common Council's Urban Renewal Committee said today after Thursday night's special meeting of the Council.

The aldermen met to set up a public hearing on what is expected to be the first private redevelopment in Broadway East—seven, single family homes to be built by Perennial Homes of Long Island.

The Council, by a 12-0 vote, approved Perennial Homes as the developer and set a date of June 30 in the Council at City Hall chambers for the public hearing.

Clifford Sinsbaugh, (D-10th Ward), chairman of the Urban Renewal Committee, was one of several aldermen who cited city hall as the impetus for private reconstruction Downtown. "This is the beginning of the rebuilding of Downtown," Sinsbaugh said. "It looks very good. Everyone is enthused about this."

Sinsbaugh also commended Gerald Marqusee, president of Perennial Homes, for his cooperation with the Council in making plans and specifications readily available to the aldermen. He said that those documents are now on file at the city clerk's office for public inspection.

Sinsbaugh also said that he has called a meeting of the full Council, the agency, the mayor, the developer and Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein for a review of the project Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m. in city court.

The Council is expected to approve the project at its July 1 meeting. Construction of the homes, all in the $14,000 to $16,000 range, is expected to begin in the latter part of July.

Oh Happy Day — School Is Out

The first hurrah of summer echoes through the land on this, the last day of school. Youngsters race from the doors of George Washington Elementary School toward the season of fun and games. Today's warm, humid weather made beach and pool a pleasant prospect for grown ups as well as the small fry. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

BOYS STATE SPEAKERS — Thirteen selectees from all parts of the county were honored Thursday night at the annual American Legion Boys State testimonial dinner held at Gov. Clinton Hotel. Several alumni members were also in attendance and letters were read from others who could not attend. Thomas Bohan of Kingston Post 150, past department vice commander and Edward West of Olive Post, both counselors at Boys State to be held June 22-28 at Morrisville State University College, explained procedures to the selectees. From left are H. Edgar Timmerman, past Third District Commander, who spoke on the Legion Preamble; P. Joseph Beichert, county Boys State chairman; James P. Heneghan, past Department commander, guest speaker and County Commander Vincent J. DeStasio. Nearly 200 Legionnaires, parents, alumni and guests attended. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Burglary Charged to Three Men After Ellenville House Break-in Three Ellenville men have been arraigned on charges of burglary, third degree in connection with a house break-in June 13 in this village.

Two of the suspects, Thomas Philip Edwards, 26, of Ellenville and Alfred North Jr., 18, of 6 Canal Ave., Ellenville, were arraigned Wednesday before town of Wawarsing Justice Herbert Weisoff and remanded to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of 2,500 bail. They are scheduled for examination before Justice Weisoff June 25.

Edwards was arrested June 14 by Ellenville Police on a charge of public intoxication, the home of John Graffeo, Ulster Heights, Ellenville and stole between $600-900 in rare coins. Part of the stolen money has been recovered.

Frederick Martin Miller, 18, of 3 Canal Street, Ellenville was arraigned Thursday on burglary, third degree charges in connection with the same theft and was remanded to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bail. He is also scheduled for examination June 25.

A fourth man is also a suspect in the case. His name has been withheld pending arrest.

The four allegedly broke into the home of John Graffeo,

Ulster Heights, Ellenville and stole between $600-900 in rare coins. Part of the stolen money has been recovered.

Edwards reportedly had a large amount of silver coins on his possession when he was arrested in Ellenville June 14. This led police to consider him a suspect in the case.

The investigation was carried out by Trooper C. T. Seales of the Ellenville State Police in cooperation with the Ellenville Police Department.

No Agreement In Rhinebeck Negotiations

RHINEBECK Negotiations between the Rhinebeck Teachers' Association and the Board of Education have still not reached any point of agreement, according to representatives of both bargaining agents.

A meeting was held Wednesday evening in an attempt to bring the opposing factions into closer harmony. Neil Silber, president of RTA, stated that "we were unable to make any progress."

"We are awaiting the fact finder's report, which should be ready in a week. I am not in a position to say how close we are in salary negotiations," he said.

Phillip Haskins, board member, stated that "none of the four major points of disagreement have been resolved. No future date for further negotiations has been set up. We are awaiting the fact finder's report also."

The four major points include salary, which educated sources have cited at more than $250 difference; length of elementary teacher's day; free time during day for elementary teachers to conduct school related activity; and grievance procedures.

District Superintendent Ralph Steeves was away on a business trip and could not be reached. The Rhinebeck Central School proposed 1969-70 budget was voted down by a narrow margin last week, and will be put before the voters again as soon as the law allows. No information could be ascertained as to what items would be eliminated for future voter consideration.

Sullivan Crash Kills One Man, Injures Six

SOUTH FALLSBURG, N. Y. (AP) — An Alabama man was killed and six other persons were injured when their car struck a tree late Thursday beside Route 42 near here.

Police identified the dead man as Leon Anderson, 20, of Eutaw, Ala., who was employed in this community west of the southern section of the Hudson River.

The six persons injured were reported in fair condition in Monticello Community General Hospital.

The driver, identified by police as Louis Taylor, 37, also of Eutaw, Ala., was charged with criminal negligence homicide, driving while intoxicated and operating an unregistered motor vehicle.

City Man Critical, Saved From Drowning

KINGSTON A 61-year-old Kingston man is in critical condition at Kingston Hospital today following a near drowning mishap last night in the Rondout Creek.

Kingston police reported that Raymond Elting was swimming in the creek behind Ray's Riverside Restaurant on West Strand Street at about 6:30 Thursday night. Elting apparently tired and was unable to swim back to shore.

Edward Koskie of 210 Lindorf Street, Port Ewen, who witnessed the incident, went to Elting's aid in his small outboard boat. He pulled Elting into the craft and brought him to a nearby float.

Koskie applied artificial respiration to the man. He was joined minutes later by officers Burt Quick and Harry Short of the Kingston Police Department who continued attempts to revive Elting.

Three passersby also helped with the rescue. Richard Richards of 20 Clinton Avenue, William Geiskoff of Glenelg Lake Park and Harry Nichols of 69 West Chester Street helped pull Elting out of the water.

Elting was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance Service. He was placed in the intensive care ward for treatment.

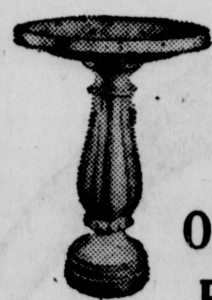

Police said Elting listed no home address.

Local Insurance Man Named Chairman of Paltz Council

ALBANY

Kingston insurance man, Lawrence A. Quilty, has been named chairman of the council of the State University College at New Paltz, it was announced today by acting Governor Malcolm Wilson.

Quilty, a present member of the council, will succeed the late David W. Corwin of New Paltz in the unsalaried position. He was recommended for the position by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, who arranged interviews for Quilty with members of the governor's staff, prior to his appointment.

Quilty, a native of Kingston, graduated from high school in 1939 and attended Boston College until the outbreak of World War II. He served in the U.S. Army for four years, received a battlefield commission by command of Gen. George S. Patton, the Bronze Star and Purple Heart with two oak leaf clusters. He served in the European Theatre and received three battle stars for Normandy, the Rhineland and

Viet Withdrawal: Factors Hanging

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's newest comments on U.S. troop withdrawal are being interpreted by some military sources as meaning 250,000 American servicemen could be out of Vietnam by the end of 1970.

Nixon said Thursday "I would hope that we could beat" a timetable proposed by former Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, calling for the pullout of 100,000 troops by this year's end and all U.S. ground combat forces by the close of 1970.

Military sources, after Nixon's news conference, noted the President referred to action already taken to withdraw one-third of American fighting forces, meaning the 25,000 who will come out in July and August.

The 25,000 is considered by the administration as the equivalent of a combat division "package," counting support elements.

There are 10 Army and Marine divisions or equivalent in Vietnam. If all these ground combat packages were brought out, it would total about 250,000 men, officials suggest.

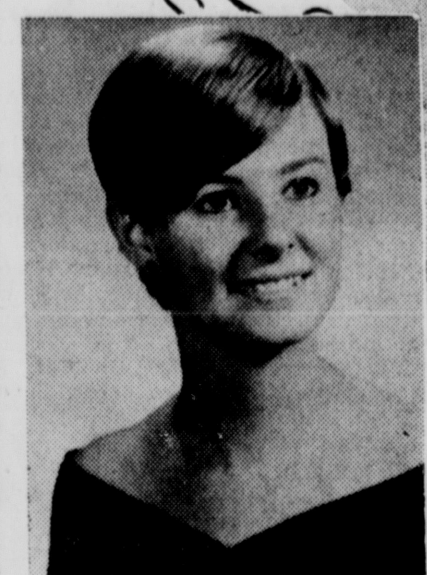

That still would leave nearly 300,000 men in Vietnam to provide air, helicopter, artillery and other backup for the South Vietnamese infantry. Gradually, these backup elements would be reduced as the South Vietnamese took over their functions.

Military planners have contended it would take about two years to complete an orderly withdrawal of the roughly 540,000 U.S. troops in Vietnam and huge amounts of equipment and supplies, other than what would be left behind for the South Vietnamese.

As for further withdrawals after the first 25,000, Nixon said "another decision will be made in August."

The number, the President said, "will depend upon the extent of the training of the South Vietnamese, as well as developments in Paris, and the other factors that I have mentioned previously."

One such factor would be the level of enemy military activity. Nixon told the nation "there is no substantial evidence, publicly," that the time has come for substantive negotiations with the enemy in Paris, where the

Rocky Postpones Scheduled Visit to Uruguay

ASUNCION, Paraguay (UPI) — New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller today postponed his planned visit to Uruguay because of the threat of major rioting in Montevideo. As he did, leftwing terrorists destroyed the $1 million General Motors plant in Montevideo by setting it afire.

Students and workers in the Uruguayan capital of Montevideo threatened major demonstrations if he went there on his mission as presidential envoy and he stayed on in this comparatively safe capital at invitation of Gen. Alfredo Stroessner, South America's longest ruling dictator.

A dispatch from Montevideo today said members of the leftwing extremist organization known as the Tupamaros entered the General Motors plant in the outskirts, opened

Democrats Talking to Lindsay, May Back His Re-election Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — Liberal Democrats unhappy with Tuesday's mayoral primary have opened informal negotiations with Mayor John V. Lindsay to see what they can gain by backing his re-election bid.

Lindsay lost the Republican nomination to State Sen. John J. Marchi, who Thursday night received the endorsement of President Nixon. The mayor has liberal party backing and has promised to form a new party of progressive elements.

The liberal wing of the Democratic party was displeased with Comptroller Mario A. Proccaccino's victory, and leaders hint they may back Lindsay.

Paul O'Dwyer, state chairman of the New Democratic Coalition, said Thursday, "Many coalition people are already going over to Lindsay. We are going to explore which direction Mr. Lindsay and his administration are going, whether there can be meaningful fusion between Lindsay people and liberal Democrats, whether we will have an influence on him."

Lindsay's campaign manager, Richard R. Aurelio, said, "There are a great many things going on, but we can't comment on anything yet."

O'Dwyer said a citywide coalition of liberal Democrats would be held July 16.

Nixon, at a televised news conference in Washington, said, "I will follow the practice as President of the United States and as leader of the Republican party of endorsing Sen. Marchi and the other Republican nominees on the city ticket in New York."

But Nixon said he would not campaign for the Staten Island Republican, explaining he would "follow the practice that has been my practice during my entire political career of campaigning and participating in only national and state elections."

Marchi professed happiness over the endorsement, despite

Nixon's no-campaign pledge. The senator, whose home is on Nixon Avenue in the Ward Hill section, commented, "I am sure his endorsement will not only be shared by my fellow Republicans but will also help broaden my support in the Greater New York City community."

Meanwhile, Brooklyn Congressman Hugh L. Carey, the unofficial winner of the Democratic nomination for City Council president, refused to endorse or repudiate Proccaccino.

But the incumbent council president, Francis X. Smith, who unofficially trailed Carey by 173 votes, said a check by his lawyers indicated he won by more than 2,000. The official canvass of voting machines will begin Monday.

The state chapter of Americans for Democratic Action urged political leaders to repudiate both Proccaccino and Marchi. But the ADA did not endorse Lindsay.

Rep. John M. Murphy of Staten Island, who pulled out of the Democratic mayoralty race to back former Mayor Robert F. Wagner, urged all Democrats to back Proccaccino.

None of the other Democratic candidates, including Wagner, have expressed support for Proccaccino.

Nixon Interjects Himself In Huge Wiretapping Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says he "checked personally" and found that Robert F. Kennedy as attorney general did authorize FBI wiretapping of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s telephone.

Katzenbach issued statements criticizing the FBI for saying the wiretap idea originated in Kennedy's office.

"Mr. Hoover's statement that Robert F. Kennedy proposed the FBI wiretapping of Dr. Martin Luther King is unfair and deceptive," Clark said. "It is unfair because it comes after Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King have been murdered in the service of humanity and are unfeasible of installing electronic devices on King's telephones. Hoover was quoted by the Star as saying FBI officials at that time advised against electronic surveillance of King because of possible political repercussions.

Clark said it also is deceptive to depict Hoover as a reluctant eavesdropper.

Nixon interjected himself into the growing dispute over the tapping of the slain civil rights leader's phone at his Thursday news conference when he came down in support of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, who claims Kennedy not only authorized the King surveillance, but originated the idea.

But the two men who succeeded Kennedy as attorney general accused Hoover and the FBI of making unfair attacks on the two slain men.

New Dimension

The controversy over the wiretapping took on a new dimension when The Washington Evening Star reported in a copy-right story Thursday that Hoover had disclosed contents of two memorandums, one saying Kennedy had expressed concern about reports that King was a student of Marxism and was associating with a New York man with known Communist connections.

Courtney Evans, then assistant director for the FBI and liaison man with the Justice Department, wrote the memorandum to Hoover in June 1963. The Star said. According to the article, Evans reported the substance of a conversation in which Kennedy expressed concern about possible infiltration of the civil rights movement by Marxists, and asked about the need it would be feasible to tap King's telephones at the headquarters of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in Atlanta, Ga., and at a New York location. The Star said a notation on this memorandum to Kennedy indicated it had been signed by the attorney general Oct. 10, 1963, and this was cited by Hoover as authorization for the wiretapping.

Nixon told a nationally televised news conference that he "checked personally into the matter as to whether or not that surveillance which had been discussed had been conducted by him (Hoover) and the FBI, by themselves, or whether it had been, as is supposed to be the case, always approved by the attorney general."

As Nixon was backing Hoover, former attorneys general Ramsey Clark and Nicholas

What About College?

Clifford A. Henze
President
Kingston Savings Bank

Our community today faces a great loss of talent. Assuming our community is average, nearly a third of those who might attend college won't; to make matters worse, one out of every four of those potential scholars are in the upper fourth of intellectual ability.

If we are to maintain our position of leadership in the free world, we cannot afford to waste talent. Every child who has the ability should be encouraged to develop his God-given talents and abilities to their fullest. College is the place to start.

Aside from the necessity of developing a trained-man society to preserve our position of leadership in the world, what does college mean to the average graduate in terms of economic and social progress? Consider for a moment just the financial rewards of a college education. Each year of college is worth about $45,000 in additional lifetime income. Think of it! The college graduate makes nearly one-quarter of a million dollars more in his lifetime, than the person with high school education.

Average Income

Former President Johnson told the Committee of Economic Development, "A child with a grammar school education will earn, during his lifetime, an average of $152,000. A child who goes through high school will earn $237,000. A child who goes through college and beyond will average $452,000."

If a college education costs an average of $6,000, the normal return will be $30 for each dollar advanced—a 3,000 per cent return on your investment! A college education increases the student's lifetime earning capacity by 66%.

The non-monetary gain derived from college education is even greater! Among other advantages, college helps a person to read more interpretively, express himself more understandably, analyze situations more logically, make better decisions faster, distinguish between opinion and fact, develop powers of reasoning, and appreciate the world around him.

Can We Pay the Price?

We cannot afford to ignore the advantages of a college education — but how can we afford to pay the price? Let's take a look at college costs. There are innumerable charts, graphs, estimates, "guesstimates" and speculations about what college costs are and the average of all these is about $7,000. The cost for the last seven years has been rising at the rate of five per cent a year and no slackening of this pace is evident in the near future.

If you can't afford the total cost of tuition, what then? Don't worry, you're not the exception, you're the rule. For those who cannot pay for college out of accumulated capital or current income, there are three principal sources of college financing: scholarships, loans and work. Many students use a combination of all three to complete college. 94% of all colleges offer some sort of financial aid. No student with sufficient ability and motivation should do without a college education because of cost.

Few scholarships, however, cover the total cost of a college education. For many, the question of a loan to meet part of the expense becomes paramount. Is it better to postpone college or take a loan?

Loan That Pays Dividends

Most college educators recommend a loan. A loan for college education is likely to pay the greatest dividends both financial and personal of any investment you will ever make. Many parents of high school seniors turn first, and logically, to their bank. Here at the Kingston Savings Bank, our staff members are always happy to discuss student loans and to offer good counsel on family money management. Loans can cover as little or as much of the college education as desired. Most loans call for monthly payments over a period longer than the four-year education. Thus the student is able to help repay the loan from post-college earnings.

If your children are not yet of college age, you are fortunate. We can help you set up a savings program to provide all or a portion of the money needed by the time they do enter college. The earlier you start, the better. For instance, if your child is now three years of age, you have 15 years to save for his first year of college, 16 for his second year, etc. If you start now and save $345 a year, at age 18 you will have accumulated $7,639 in deposits plus interest added by Kingston Savings Bank and compounded four times each year—computed at the present rate of 5% a year. (Future interest rates are based upon earnings.)

For more details about college loans or savings plans, stop in at Kingston Savings Bank. We'll be happy to talk with you. Clint Murchison Dies, Was One Of Richest Men ATHENS, Tex. (AP) — Millionaire oilman Clint Murchison Sr., 74, died early today in Henderson County Memorial Hospital in Athens.

He had been in declining health for some time and had been living at his Henderson County ranch for the past few years.

Murchison, who was a millionaire at the age of 32, was among the first of a generation of enterprising Texans to become wealthy in oil between the world wars.

Estimates of his worth have varied between 100 and 500 million dollars, placing him among the world's richest men.

Aside from oil and gas, his holdings over the years have proliferated into railroads, book publishing, buses, taxis, outdoor theaters, restaurants, real estate and fishing gear manufacture.

He was once said to control 115 separate companies at one time.

Lavish houses fascinated him. His best known were a 25-room Dallas mansion built for $125,000 in 1936, and another showplace on his 75,000-acre ranch in the Sierra Madre wilderness in Mexico.

The group, which ordinarily meets the fourth Tuesday of each month, changed its meeting date to accommodate the speaker's schedules according to vice president, Thaddeus Musialkiewicz.

Supervisors, Legislators Meet Monday

Legislators Association of Ulster County will have Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and Sen. Jay P. Rolison as guest speakers for its next meeting, Monday at 8 p. m. in the County Office Building.

The group, which ordinarily meets the fourth Tuesday of each month, changed its meeting date to accommodate the speaker's schedules according to vice president, Thaddeus Musialkiewicz.

Bell and Rolison will speak on the achievements of the legislature during the last session, with emphasis on bills they have introduced. They will also delve into proposed legislation now being contemplated and will entertain questions from the audience following their talks.

Notices are being mailed to all members of the association and all former supervisors are also invited to attend.

Port Ewen

Mrs. William Lynn celebrated her 99th birthday on Tuesday, June 10th with her son Ranklin and wife of Staten Island, her daughter Mrs. Margaret Bigler of Kingston and daughters, the Misses Fern, Evelyn and Grace Lynn of Port Ewen. Mrs. Lynn is very active, sews, helps with housework and reads and watches television.

Gets Year On Criminal Trespass

KINGSTON Winfield Moore, 32, of River Road, New Paltz, was sentenced to one year in Ulster County Jail by County Judge Raymond J. Mino Thursday on a charge of criminal trespass.

Moore had originally been charged with burglary, third degree, criminal trespass and three counts of assault in connection with a shootout with State Police at the Happy Hour Tavern in Tilton in 1967. The jury deliberating his case failed to reach a verdict so Moore changed his plea to guilty on criminal trespass charges. Moore is still facing charges for a trailer park break-in near New Paltz on June 10.

Pasquale Pasqua, currently serving a 10-15 year sentence at Dannemora State Prison received a 1½ to 2½ year sentence on charges of burglary, third degree, unlawful entry, grand larceny, second degree, illegal possession of fireworks and illegal possession of burglar's tools. Pasqua was involved in an attempted burglary of a Port Ewen establishment in 1966.

Joanne Sadler and Sharon Ann Wally, charged with sale of narcotics, withdrew their pleas of guilty yesterday and were scheduled for trial August 6.

Sponsors Rundle Memorial Fund

TOWN OF ULSTER The Town of Ulster Kiwanis Club today announced that it is sponsoring a James Rundle memorial fund for the Kingston and Ulster County YMCA building campaign.

Rundle former youth director at the YMCA was killed in action in Vietnam last week. The 26-year-old had planned a career in YMCA work and majoring in group work at Springfield College. Parran Gates, president of the Town of Ulster Kiwanis said the club is sponsoring the memorial and will kick off the fund with a donation at its Monday meeting. Rundle's father, James Rundle, is a member of Ulster Kiwanis. Those wishing to share in the memorial may send donations directly to the YMCA.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 20, 1969

YMCA 125 Years Young

The Young Men's Christian Association of the United States is this year celebrating its 125th Anniversary.

If an attitude of creative optimism, an ability to adjust constructively to changing times, and a willingness to experiment on the side of progress, are characteristic of youth, the 'Y' then still lives up to its name and is truly young as it forges ahead in its second century.

Though founded in London in 1844 originally "for the improvement of the spiritual and mental condition of young men engaged in houses of business," the YMCA shortly after its transplanting here in 1851 broadened its aims to improve the minds, bodies, spirit and social outlook of youth on all levels.

Since those early years when it found root in Montreal and Boston, sites of the first North American Associations, the 'Y' has never let down in its search for better ways to better youth. As a result of its sustained dynamic youthfulness, it has dotted its history with many "firsts" over the last five generations.

The YMCA during the Civil War created the U.S. Christian Commission, first volunteer wartime armed forces welfare agency and forerunner of the USO and Red Cross; organized camping for boys was pioneered by it; basketball, volleyball and other sports were invented under its aegis; the Camp Fire Girls organization was founded by one of its staff members, and the Boy Scouts in the United States were organized through the guidance of 'Y' men; new gym techniques it introduced revolutionized physical education and, through its World Services program carried American "know how" to improve standards of living, and other democratic ways of life to the far corners of the earth.

Still "young" and adjusting to changing times, the 'Y' conducts a wide range of programs including 1,211 varied programs designed to help people in underprivileged neighborhoods.

Delegates attending the national convention at St. Louis are considering new ways to improve individual lives and society in America today.

We salute the eternal youth of the YMCA.

The YMCA is a member of the Kingston and Ulster County Community Chest.

Judge-Inspired Riots?

The Supreme Court has come in for much criticism in this country, but it is unusual for the lesser judges to be blamed for the riots on campus between police and students. The accuser is Britain's top police officer, Sir Eric Johnston, chief inspector of constabulary.

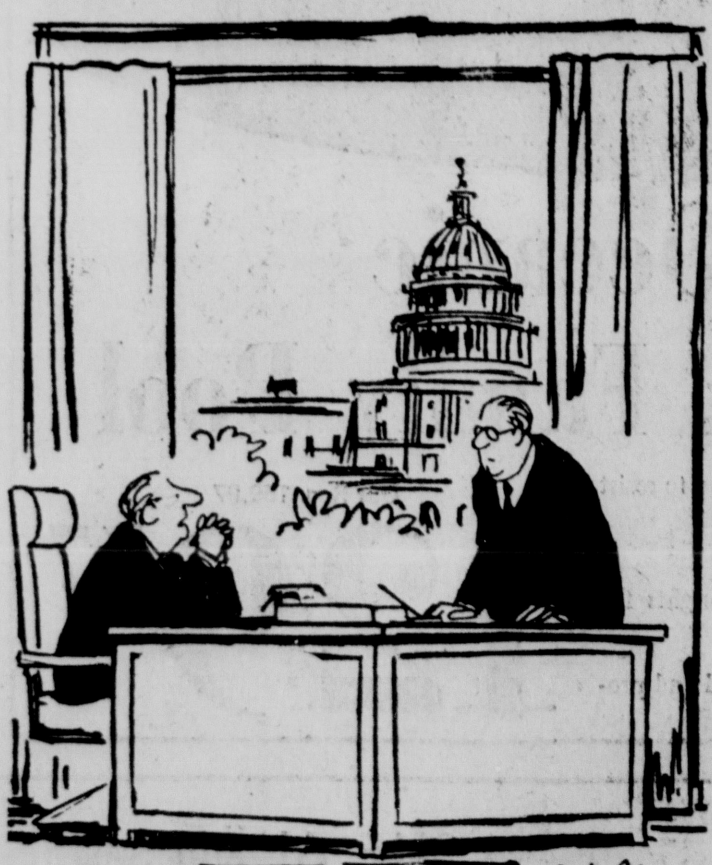

Sir Eric had completed a lecture tour of this country, including an appearance at riot-torn University of California at Berkeley. He was critical of American police methods on campus, especially the use of shotguns and tear gas, but the real trouble, he found, is that the police are not backed by the judges.

"The courts are far too ready to listen to defense lawyers and to let people out on bail," he said. "The sad result is a police force with a very low morale."

London has had its campus disturbances, as have other capitals the world over. It is the widespread campus riots in this country that disturb visiting police such as Sir Eric.

His expert opinion is worth heeding. He said police must get court support to be effective. Unfortunately, that is true not only in campus trouble but in crime in general. Lenient judges compound crime in the street.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Now, let's see! You say we're in dire need of sex and drug education... eh... was that for the kids or their parents?"

Face in the Crowd

David Lawrence Says

Primary Vote Was Based On 'Law and Order' Issue

WASHINGTON — In recent elections for mayor in each of three cities — Los Angeles, Minneapolis and New York — the voters now have expressed themselves emphatically on the "law and order" issue. They disapprove of the reluctance of local authorities to use the police promptly and deal with riots and disturbances effectively. The simple truth is that the people are frightened, and they are giving their support at the polls to those candidates in any of the political parties who seem to be willing to protect the citizenry.

In the primary on Tuesday, Democratic and Republican voters in New York City heavily supported candidates on the "conservative" side in casting ballots for the nominations for mayor. It was, in fact, a turning against the incumbent leaders of both parties. There has been an old rule in politics that, when an administration in power doesn't do enough about an issue which has awakened deep emotions, opposition rises irrespective of party.

The people are not interested in whether the candidates or men in office call themselves "conservatives" or "liberals." They are concerned with what is going to be done to make the streets safe again, and what restrictive measures will be applied. Rioters — using the excuse of "free speech" have deliberately upset the peaceful life of many a community.

Educators themselves are puzzled or frustrated by the tactics of the demonstrators who seek publicity in various causes on the ground that they have a right to use almost any means to emphasize their dissent. But the commonsense point of view of the average voter is that there are plenty of places where public issues can be discussed — in stadiums or convention halls — and that there is no justification for the seizure of buildings, whether public or private.

Even the churches have not been immune from such invasions, and the people keep asking: "When are the troublemakers going to be arrested and punished?"

Resentment is rising all across the land. Members of Congress are going to feel it in the 1970 elections although the preservation of law and order is largely the responsibility of the states and cities. Pressure is growing inside Congress currently for legislation that will invoke federal power in order to help put down incipient rebellion.

This is described by the intellectuals as a trend toward a "police state." But the American people are tired of reading about alleged "police brutality" and the demands that the police power be used only gently. They want results.

The dissatisfaction which has emerged all over the country is due not only to acts of irresponsible groups which have provoked riots and disturbances but to the failure of governmental power to prevent crime. The upsurge in the number of murders and robberies being committed is worrying residents in rural and suburban districts as well as in the cities. While an increasing population is bound to bring a rise in crime, the peaceful citizen doesn't understand why police authority cannot be more intensively used and expanded.

So some of the candidates for public office and prominent persons who have argued that the answer to America's problems is not in the use of more police power but in spending more money on poverty and sociological problems are not convincing the voters that this is a solution. The theory on which America has developed its form of government is that there must be obedience to authority and that, while discussion may be legitimate, violence cannot be condoned under any circumstances.

The people in the last presidential election gave a heavy majority against "permissiveness" by their combined vote for Nixon and Wallace. They were not blaming Johnson as much as they were looking for a new leadership which would seek effective ways of dealing with internal disorder, if not open rebellion, by many elements in the country.

The voters are losing patience with rhetorical explanations and intellectual alibis. They want action by local governments as well as by the national government.

The trend that has been manifested in the elections in Los Angeles, Minneapolis and New York City is bound to show up again in local elections held later this year and in the congressional elections in 1970. For the voters apparently feel that only through the ballot box will their complaints be heeded, and a change made from a state of fear to a state of security and safety.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

It is easy to detect the person who is truly old. He — or she — spends time telling youngsters how difficult life used to be. All of them had hard, merciless parents and teachers.

Sometimes, given a few after dinner cocktails, they can make it sound as though they grew up in an orphanage.

In one respect, the things they relate become accurate. A half century ago, fathers and mothers spent more time with their children. There was no radio; no television; the evening pastime could be found in a deck of cards, the newspaper, or a book.

The daily routine in our house was dull, but we didn't know it. My younger brother John and my sister Adele thought that everybody lived in railroad flats and had to address their father with "Yes, sir" and their mother with "Yes, ma'am."

We were whipped, but not frequently. If the offense was minor — like playing around a bonfire in an empty lot and coming home with the smell of smoke on our school clothes — my mother met us at the door with a roundhouse slap on the face which stung for several minutes.

If it was a felony — like withdrawing a book from the public library with photos of nude natives — my father took us into the bathroom, which provides very little running room, and used his razor strop on the calves of our legs. He never hit us higher than that, but he could hold the back of a boy's collar and make the leather curl around the leg.

They made us think that we owed everything to them; that they had no indebtedness to us. I tried to explain to my mother that boys do not wash dinner dishes, but she paid little attention and I drew this duty from the age of eight onward. Johnny had to dry them and sometimes he cried them all wet again.

We despised Adele because she was small and pretty and my mother accorded to her affectionate attention we never got. To get groceries, I was given a list and a ruled book. We traded with Mr. Goldman, and he marked the items in the book and, when my father was paid, he tried hard to catch up to the grocer.

Our school suits were bought on the time-payment plan from Michael Heir. If we went on a vacation, it was because my father was able to arrange a personal loan from a bank for $300.

It was not a hard life. We ate well. My father insisted on the best cuts of meat from Mr. Apple, just as he found the best haircuts were in Mike Ceretta's shop. Saturday was baking day for my mother — layer cakes, biscuits, homemade bread in a coal stove — so she had no time for housework.

For this, we were elected. In summer, we dusted the furniture, used a Bissell carpet sweeper on rugs, and polished brass faucets until they looked like 14-karat gold. Outside, we could hear the crack of bat on ball in the empty lots across the street; in the autumn, the dull thump of shoe against football was not for us.

If we missed church on Sunday because of a headache, my parents assumed that we must be very ill, and would make us stay in bed all day. We were not permitted a magical recovery. The same applied to missing a day at school. Anything under a fever of 102 degrees was considered fakery.

As a lieutenant of police, my father earned $7 a week, which was pretty good. Sometimes, on his day off, he played poker with other policemen and came home tipsy, slamming doors and trying to purse his lips and whistle an old tune. He kept two revolvers in a locked bureau drawer and once I was caught trying to open it with a nail file. He and I went into the bathroom together.

It wasn't a difficult life, really. The motif, looking backward, seems to have been that we had to pull our weight in the family boat; and that transgressions result in immediate punishment.

Until each of us married, we had to turn our pay envelope over to mother. Every week, we got $2 as spending money.

In their ignorance, my parents were wise...

Drew Pearson Says Postmaster Blount Adds His Negro Butler to Payroll

Historic Supreme Court Decision

On March 24, 1969 Drew Pearson reported that the Justice Department under new Attorney General John Mitchell had dropped the anti-trust case against El Paso Natural Gas, a long-time client of the Nixon law firm. There followed several columns giving more details.

In April the Supreme Court took the unusual step of ordering a new hearing of the El Paso case, despite the Justice Department's negative position.

On June 16 the Supreme Court handed down a historic decision setting aside the El Paso-Colorado Interstate Gas merger and requiring that El Paso divest itself of Pacific Northwest Pipeline through a cash sale.

WASHINGTON — Postmaster General Winton Blount, the able Alabama building tycoon, has made a big noise over saving the taxpayers' money and eliminating political hacks from the postal payroll. Simultaneously he has brought his butler, Jethro Butcher, up to Washington from Alabama and added him to the post office payroll.

The genial, 62-year-old Negro collects $6,321 a year from the taxpayers for waiting on Blount. Butcher also has an official title to go with his government salary — "Special Assistant to the Postmaster General."

A post office spokesman explained that Butcher delivers official messages from the Postmaster General to Members of Congress. Members who have met Butcher, however, recall that he was wearing a white coat and was serving them filet mignon in the Postmaster General's private dining room.

In addition to his butler duties, Butcher also serves as Blount's cook, valet and handyman. He broils the steaks to order in the Postmaster General's private kitchen.

As the nation's postal panjandrum, Blount has inherited the most grandiose office kitchen-dining complex in Washington. Designed by big Jim Farley, few grand ballrooms can compare with it for size and splendor.

Not since Louis XIV has so much public money been lavished on a public official's office. Even the reception room with its high ceilings and great chandeliers somewhat resemble the throne room at Versailles.

In these magnificent surroundings, Blount, the chamber of commerce executive from Alabama, looks as if he had wandered by mistake into the 17th century. But with Butcher attending him, he partially lives up to the environment.

Foot-Dragging on Peace There's a lot more than meets the eye behind Cyrus Vance's public join-up with Dr. Clark Kerr's peacenik committee for Vietnam.

Vance's move results from pent-up frustration over

Nixon's Vietnam policy. This has now reached a point of open dissent, even disgust on the part of Vance and his colleague Averell Harriman.

They, more than any other members of the Johnson administration, have been closest to the peace talks and know from the inside what has been going on. To old friends in the State Department they have expressed their belief that the Nixon administration has lost precious time during which, as one of them expressed it, "250 boys have been killed each week."

For seven weeks President Nixon failed to authorize his negotiators in Paris to hold private talks with the North Vietnamese. Harriman and Vance found that they got much further in private talks, nowhere in public plenary sessions. Talking during coffee breaks, Harriman and Vance found that the North Vietnamese confided their hopes for peace, how they wanted to get the new American "miracle" rice, and looked forward to cooperation with LBJ's plan for a TVA on the Mekong river.

After taking office, however, Nixon waited seven weeks before authorizing continued private talks.

"Here is a President who said he had a solution for the war over one year ago," one of the Harriman-Vance negotiating team told State Department friends. "But after he becomes President, he does not reveal his secret plan. He waits for four months after becoming President, and then, in a broadcast to the nation on May 14, he reveals, almost with pride, that he has only the same old Johnson techniques for peace. Meanwhile American boys are being killed at the rate of 250 a week."

Note: The organization which Vance has just joined is the "National Committee for a Political Settlement in Vietnam," which urges a standstill ceasefire immediately, plus an international peace-keeping force to oversee the ceasefire, plus prompt free elections.

Overanxious Papa

Thousands of college seniors have graduated this month without benefit of a father in Congress. One young exception was John Whalley, son of GOP Congressman J. Irving Whalley of Pennsylvania who came barging into the registrar's office at American University to find out what was holding up his son's graduation. The Congressman explained that his son was in danger of being drafted.

The registrar sent Whalley to the economics department, which had withheld John's grade until he completed some unfinished work. Without a grade in economics, young Whalley's accumulated average was 1.496 — just short of the 1.5 average needed to graduate.

Whalley senior confronted Mrs. Lee Galloway in the economics department, identified himself as a Congressman, and asked about his boy's graduation. He even showed her the draft notice to convince her how important it was that John be allowed to graduate.

Impressed, she wrote a note to John's economics professor, Ronald Muller, explaining that John "urgently" needed the grade because of his "draft status." As it happened, the Congressman's son had already taken steps on his own to make up the unfinished work.

Congressman Whalley, when queried, explained that he wasn't trying to keep his son out of the draft. He said he wanted to make sure the boy graduated before going into the army. In the end John graduated.

Russia and the Moon

Rep. Bertram Podell, D-N.Y., got some interesting insight into the Russians' moon preparations during his trip to the Paris Air Show.

"We have no intention at this time to send a man to the moon," a young Russian scientist named Eremenko told Podell. "We are following different priorities."

"I'm primarily interested in the benefits the space program will provide to improve our fabric of existence," Podell told him. "I mean technological advances such as weather satellites, asthma helmets for children and sensors for the detection of Parkinson's disease and cancer. It would be wonderful if your country and ours could interchange ideas in these fields to help mankind."

"We're not interested so much in this aspect of space exploration — the side effects — at the moment," replied Eremenko. "We are devoting most of our efforts to unmanned outer space techniques, improved radio communication and so on."

Podell inquired how many cosmonauts had been killed in Soviet space experiments, but Eremenko smilingly refused to answer.

The New Yorker also had a long talk over coffee at an outdoor cafe with Larry Levine, chief counsel for General Electric, and with Ralph Watson, a vice president of North American Rockwell, another big defense contractor.

"As you may know, I am opposed to our supersonic transport project, in which Boeing is the prime contractor and GE is providing the engine," Podell told them. "It is too speculative and expensive. I don't think our taxpayers should be saddled with the financing."

At that moment, the Anglo-French counterpart of the SST, the Concord, flew overhead with a deafening roar. (Podell learned later that the huge plane had blown off a rooftop on this exhibition flight.) His conversation with the U.S. industrialists was completely drowned out by the shattering noise.

"You gentlemen seem somewhat startled yourselves," Podell said after the noise had partially subsided.

Levine and Watson agreed that the monstrous new transport-type plane could not be considered operational unless the noise problem is licked.

Assembly to Stage Exercise In Campaign for Pay Boost

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Assembly will fire the first shot next week in a campaign to win pay raises for all members of the state legislature.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, the Assembly's 21 standing committees will hold full-dress meetings at the Capitol. Marking their official conversion to "year-round working status."

In the past, all Assembly and most Senate committees have folded operations with the end of the legislature's annual session, usually a three or four-month affair. Most lawmakers then could call it a year.

This year, however, all committees in both houses have continued in existence, along with a handful of joint legislative committees, which combine senators and assemblymen to conduct special studies.

Next week's exercise is designed to show that state lawmakers are working longer and harder these days and thus, the argument goes, are entitled to more pay. No amounts have been suggested officially.

Each legislator now is paid $15,000 in annual salary, plus a $3,000 lump — sum allowance known as a "lulu" — because it is given "in lieu of" itemizing expenses. "Lulus" are counted as income for tax purposes and when computing pension benefits.

In addition, chairmen and ranking minority members of most committees are accorded further "lulus" ranging from $2,000 to $10,000 a year. The leaders of the legislature draw allowances running from $18,500 to $21,000.

Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges and Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea Jr. stand at the top of the pay scale, each commanding pay and income allowances totaling $39,000.

The committee allowance system was enriched during the 1969 session, amid some grumbling that it did not go far enough.

Agreeing that lawmakers were "grossly underpaid," Brydges won the votes he needed for the employee-pay bill by promising a study would be made with a view toward raising the legislature's compensation.

The upshot was passage of a bill signed by Rockefeller — authorizing appointment of a 15-member commission of non-legislators to look into the pay situation and report next year. Rockefeller, Brydges and Duryea are to appoint five members each.

While the commission is making its study, the leaders naturally want to produce evidence that the lawmakers are entitled to more money — to back their contention that they must spend more time on the job coping with the myriad problems of modern society, cutting into the time they might devote to private business pursuits.

UCT to Honor Two Area Men Tuesday Night

KINGSTON
Two area men will be honored by Kingston Council No. 356, Order of United Commercial Travelers of America, at a banquet Tuesday at Liguori's Restaurant, Rosendale.

Robert M. Smith of St. Remy and C. Lester Legg Jr. of 68 Wilson Avenue, Kingston, will be named post counselors at the banquet. Both will be presented with diamond rings bearing the insignia of the order in appreciation of their services to the lodge.

Smith served as senior counselor for the year ending March 1, 1969, and has been reelected to serve as presiding officer for the coming year.

Legg has served as secretary-treasurer of the local lodge for the past 16 years and will serve in that capacity again this year.

The local lodge will also honor three area residents who have been members of the lodge for 50 years. George B. Main of 89 St. James Street, Adelbert H. Chambers of 244 Clinton Avenue and William F. Edelmuth of 8 Clinton Avenue will be presented with inscribed plaques and diamond lapel pins to commemorate their service to the lodge.

Klein, Elmore Are Honored at Upstate Parley

KINGSTON
Two area teachers were honored recently at the annual conference of the Association of Teachers of Agriculture of New York at Lake George.

Walter Elmore of Kripplush was presented with the Association's Ten Year Service Award. He is a teacher of agriculture at Ulster County BOCES.

Raphael Klein, of 89 Spring Street, a teacher of agriculture at Kingston High School for the past 27 years, was presented with the Association's Retirement Award.

Klein is a member of the Ulster County Grange, the County Fair Committee and chairman of the FFA Contest in the Kingston Horticulture Show.

Fish Commends Senior Citizen Bill Passage

POUGHKEEPSIE
"A chance for our older citizens to participate more fully in American life," Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. today called the unanimous action taken by the House of Representatives in passing the Older American Act Amendments of 1969.

"The need for this legislation is clear when one realizes that over 20 million citizens are now over 65 years old and that a large percentage of this group are living below a bare subsistence level," the congressman said.

The new amendments will assist in such programs as finding part time jobs for the elderly and provide traveling and counseling services.

To Offer Paper At Pollution Control Meet

KINGSTON
Douglas W. Cooper of Rosendale, a graduate student at Pennsylvania State University, will present a paper at the annual meeting of the Air Pollution Control Association, June 22-26 in New York City.

Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Cooper of Rosendale, is a graduate air pollution trainee at the University. His paper is entitled "Laser Light Backscattering from Laboratory Aerosols."

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened mixed today in moderately active trading.

The market may get a boost from President Nixon's comments Thursday evening. The President said he hoped to bring U.S. troops home from Vietnam at a faster rate than was suggested by Clark Clifford, former defense secretary. Clifford had proposed the withdrawal of all ground combat forces by the end of next year.

However, normal pre-weekend, evening-up influences and tight money could be major obstacles to any significant upswing. Tight credit has depressed stocks for better than a month.

Shortly after the opening, the UPI stock market indicator was up 0.13 per cent. Of the 380 issues on the tape, 154 advanced and 130 declined.

Steels were mostly higher. Oils and electronics were mixed, but chemicals retreated. In the motors, American Motors added 1/8, but General Motors dipped 1/8. Chrysler held unchanged.

Dispute Settled, Air Traffic Normal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The congestion crisis that threatened chaos at key airports around the country on one of their busiest days apparently ended this morning with the settlement of a dispute resulting from air controllers' complaints of being overworked and undermanned.

F. Lee Bailey, attorney for the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, signaled an end to the dispute when he said this morning the group had urged its members to return to work on a normal basis.

The controllers either called in sick in unusually high numbers Thursday or applied Federal Aviation Administration safety rules so strictly that planes were up to four hours behind schedule and airlines canceled flights. Bailey, reached at his Boston home, said it would be misleading to say an agreement had been reached between the FAA and the PATCO, since that "implies some organized effort to have the controllers not show up."

But he said the association had urged the men to go back to work following a four-hour meeting Thursday night in Washington between PATCO officials and the FAA in which some understandings had been reached over basic controller complaints.

Airports around the country reported controllers were showing up to work in usual numbers and operations were returning to normal following Bailey's effort to slow down or stop airport operations but the fact remained that Thursday's absentee rate for controllers was more than double the usual 3 per cent and landings and take-offs at major airports were reduced by wholesale lots.

Only 42 of 103 air traffic controllers reported for work on the night shift at Islip, N.Y., which has radar control over all flights coming into New York. In Chicago, only two-thirds of the normal force showed up. The others reported they were sick.

The controllers who worked slowed traffic by enforcing regulations of the Federal Aviation requiring a minimum separation of three miles between landing aircraft and five miles distance between those out of airport vicinity.

As delays Thursday at New York's three major airports stretched from minutes to as much as four hours, airlines cancelled more than 200 flights. The effect was quickly felt at other airports, particularly in the East.

Passengers had to endure the long delays either in the airports or in their seats aboard the stalled aircraft.

Quinlan Explains Views on Drug Raid

RED HOOK

In response to criticism hurled at the Dutchess County Sheriff's Department by an association of Episcopal ministers recently, Sheriff Lawrence B. Quinlan has made his feelings known.

Nixon: 'We ...'

didn't "continue to kill our men."

Thieu is cooperating with the United States in the peace search and "under those circumstances, there is no question about our standing with President Thieu."

But Nixon said if free elections showed the South Vietnamese would prefer some other government, the United States would accept the decision.

On another foreign policy topic, Nixon expressed regret that the tense Middle East situation has not been defused during his tenure. But he called it a plus that the Soviet Union, Britain and France are joined with the United States for four-way talks that hopefully might produce "some basis of communication between Arabs and Israel."

As for planned talks between the United States and the Soviet Union on possible limitation of strategic arms, Nixon guessed these might start between July 31 and Aug. 15, either in Vienna or Geneva.

The chief executive, asked about suggestions from some Congress members that testing of such weapons be halted in the meantime, said a test moratorium might be part of an eventual Washington-Moscow agreement but a unilateral halt now would not be in the national interest.

On the subject of campus disorders, Nixon said he opposes legislation that could cut off federal aid "from any college or university in which there was a demonstration."

He said the federal government can't be the policeman of every campus but, hopefully, the administration can develop "new legal remedies that might be available to college administrators to use where violence or lawlessness does occur."

On other domestic matters, Nixon said: "FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, embroiled in a controversy over wiretaps placed on the home of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., enjoys his full confidence and there has been no talk of replacing him. Nixon said he is convinced Hoover acted properly in placing the tap."

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert H. Finch will recommend next week a nominee for the still-vacant key post of assistant secretary for health and scientific affairs. Finch has favored Boston Dr. John Knowles for the post, but Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois has objected. Nixon said Finch's final decision will be backed up by the White House.

The criticism concerned theatrics staged in the recent Bard College pre-dawn drug raids.

Sheriff Quinlan said, "Rev. Prutton is apparently blaming me for the troubles on the Bard campus."

Rev. Prutton refers to Hollywood fashion raids, with reporters all over the place ... conducted in pre-dawn fashion. He apparently does not realize that the purpose of this was to avoid additional arrests and possible violence, because of the militant attitudes of some of the students. A daytime raid might possibly bring about a situation where many people might be injured."

Quinlan continued, "It is apparent that Rev. Prutton does not realize that the drug problem is probably the greatest problem facing law enforcement today and, because of its magnitude, it is of great interest to the news media. I see no reason why I, or any other law enforcement agency, should suppress this news."

Quinlan stated that "there have been instances since our meeting with college officials in November which have been known to members of the administration which were not reported, concerned with overdoses and use of narcotics."

He concluded, "If the college would clean its own house, it would avoid the publicity that apparently disturbs them so much."

Tornado Hits Hard In Jamestown Area

JAMESTOWN, N. Y. (UPI)—

A damaging tornado, spawned by violent thunder storms, ripped through Chautauque County for the second time in seven weeks today, tearing roofs from houses, downing power lines and bending trees like matchsticks.

The towns of Clymer and Gerry on opposite sides of Chautauque Lake were the hardest hit, but authorities said they had difficulty gathering damage reports because telephone lines were down in several areas.

A tornado also was reported near the Cattaraugus County seat at Little Valley. Sheriff's deputies there said they had several reports of fallen trees blocking main roads.

The Automatic Voting Machine Co. building in Jamestown was heavily damaged when a floor was torn away and the 4th floor was strewn with debris and water.

Authorities said about 25 men were on the fourth floor at the time. One was taken to a local hospital for treatment of what officials called "emotional upset."

There were no reports of injuries. The fire sprinkling system in the building caused much of the flooding, authorities said, because of broken pipelines.

Schools were closed for the day in Bemus Point because of weather bureau warnings of violent thunder storms.

The U. S. Weather Bureau at Buffalo called off its tornado warnings shortly before 10 a.m. but added that severe thunder storms were still a danger for all sections of western and south-central New York, south of a line from Buffalo east to Cooperstown, up to 1 p.m.

Chautauque County sheriff's deputies said trees were knocked down in several areas and were blocking a number of main roads. They said several house trailers were overturned.

It was the second tornado to strike the Jamestown area in recent weeks. Extensive damage was caused May 17 in an eight-square-mile area surrounding the village of Sinclairville.

State police said some 40 residences and 10 businesses were damaged in the May 17 tornado.

Local Workshops Slated

A three-day workshop is being planned for June 24-26 at the Rondout Valley Central School in Stone Ridge by the Ulster County School Food Service Association.

Morning and afternoon classroom sessions will be on the agenda and outstanding guest speakers have accepted the Association's invitation to appear.

Among them will be Mrs. Josephine Maggiore, member of the Advisory Board for the Food Research Center, North Easton, Mass.; Mrs. Bertha Travers, treasurer of the New York State School Food Service Association; and Miss Kathleen Shurter, supervisor of School Nurses, Kingston City Schools Consolidated.

Other guests expected to attend the workshop sessions are representatives from Market Forge Company and the Lewis Equipment Company. Demonstrations will be conducted on the latest equipment.

Classes will be taught by Mrs. Maggiore and Mrs. Gertrude Ottman who is area director of Eastern Area New York State Food Service Association. The cooking class instructors will be Mrs. Matilda Bernard and Miss Louise Capozzi.

Mrs. Elizabeth Somerville of the Ontario Central School is registrations chairman. Handling public relations are Florence M. Orr and Vivian Longie.

Qualified Teachers

Mrs. Maggiore has worked as a lecturer for Brother Herman Zaccarelli, C.S.C., International Director of the Food Research Center, for approximately 10 years. Her work as a lecturer has taken her to Australia, Puerto Rico, Canada and various cities in the United States. She is a member of the local, state and national School Food Service Association and the American Dietetic Association; National Educational Association and New York State Education Association.

Mrs. Maggiore is past president of the New York State School Food Service Association and served as editor of the organization's publication "The New York State Newsletter" and as convention chairman and advisor. UCCC Offers Four Art Courses This Summer Ulster County Community College will offer four art courses in its Summer Sessions, Ronald A. Koster, the director, announced today.

Painting I and Intermediate Painting I and Art History II will be offered in the Day Session, while Art History I will be given in the evening.

Persons interested in registering for these courses can do so at the College's Stone Ridge campus from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. and 6:30 to 9 p. m. on Monday, June 23. Classes will start on Tuesday, June 24.

The College's summer art program has been designed to appeal to a wide range of interests. The courses are designed for those with little or no background in art as well as for advanced students.

In Painting I, individual creative expression is stressed in drawing, painting and composition through the use of various painting media. Space relationship and color visualization will be emphasized.

In Intermediate Painting I, painting will be stressed in the development of skills in composition. The student will be encouraged to explore studio discipline related to his or her personal direction as a painter.

Art History I is a beginning survey of art history from antiquity through the Gothic period of history. There will be an evaluation of various art forms as influenced by tradition, social and religious conditions, technological progress and industrial civilization. Visits to museums will be included.

Covered in Art History II will be a study of the European schools of painting and sculpture from 1300 to the present time. Field trips and visits to museums will be included.

Further information about these and other Summer Sessions courses can be obtained by calling the Director of Summer School.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Darrow-Alling Nuptials Told

Miss Dorothy Dennison Darrow of 132 St. James Street, Kingston, daughter of Mrs. D. Weaver Darrow of Kingston, and Herbert Van Wyck Darrow Jr. of Riverside Park, Hurley, became the bride of Morton David Alling II, 141 Main Street, Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. on David Alling Jr. of 151 Woodrow Street, West Hartford, Conn., at Old Dutch Reformed Church, Kingston, on Saturday, June 14.

The Rev. Arthur Oudemool officiated at the double ring candlelight wedding ceremony. Miss Cynthia Jones, organist, provided traditional wedding selections and presented a recital prior to the wedding. Arrangements of white and yellow gladioli, roses, and baby's breath decorated the altar. Candles were placed in all the windows and satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a peau de soie gown, fashioned with a basque bodice of imported Chantilly lace, long fitted sleeves, and a scalloped neckline. The gown featured a full cathedral train which enveloped the sheath dress, and the panels of the train were accented with Belgium Chantilly lace. Her headpiece was a cap of leaves made of Chantilly lace and accented with pearls. It was held to a blusher veil with a detachable illusion cathedral veil. She carried a cascading bouquet of baby's breath, white stephanotis and white roses, centered with a bouquet of yellow tea roses.

Mrs. Lewis N. Eaton of Miramar, Fla., twin sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a pale yellow crepe gown, styled with a white lace bodice over yellow, and featuring a dark yellow bow at the waist in the back of the dress. A dark yellow bow with tulle veil served as her headpiece, and she carried a cascading bouquet of yellow roses and baby's breath.

Attendants were Miss Susan Bishoff of Catskill; Mrs. Newell Miller Jr. of Beacon; and Mrs. Robert Barieka, Forest Hills, L.I., a cousin of the bride. Their gowns were identical in styling to that of the honor attendant, featuring a train in the back. They wore pale yellow headpieces and carried cascading bouquets of yellow roses.

Miss Emily M. Darrow, step-sister of the bride; and Miss Dawn E. Alling, niece of the bridegroom, were flower girls. They wore gowns identical in styling to those of the other attendant, and carried baskets of yellow tea roses and daisies.

Richard Lassen Alling of Winchester, Conn., was best man for his brother. Ushers were James Robbins of Union, Me., cousin of the bridegroom; Kenneth Beauregard, West Hartford, Conn.; and Neil Baumert, Thompsonville, Conn. John Daniel Eaton of Miramar, Fla., nephew of the bride, served as ringbearer.

After the wedding, a reception for 150 guests was held at Beekman Arms Hotel, Rhinebeck.

For her wedding trip to Hamilton Beach, Bermuda, the bride chose an ivory crepe dress fashioned in the A-line style with full lace sleeves, and a corsage of yellow roses.

The bride attended Ulster County Community College and Ithaca College School of Music. She is a member of Epsilon Nu Gamma, professional fraternity, and is employed by IBM.

Her husband, an alumnus of Brvant College, Providence, R.I., was awarded a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration, and is president of Delta Omega fraternity. He is employed also by IBM.

Mr. and Mrs. Alling will be at home after July 7 at 141 Main Street, Kingston.

Wedding Vows Exchanged Here

Miss Carol Ann Carpino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carpino of Tilden Street, Port Ewen, exchanged nuptial vows with Mark Warren Riseley, stepson and son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McDonald, respectively of 118 Hone Street, Kingston, on Sunday, June 8, at St. Joseph's Church, Kingston.

The Rev. Robert Saccoman, cousin of the bride, officiated at the ceremony. James Sweeney, organist, accompanied Mrs. Theodore Weyhe, aunt of the bride, who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of aqua chrysanthemums and white gladioli decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected and imported rayon organza empire gown that terminated in a motif encrusted Watteau chapel train. The bodice of ribbon lace featured a scalloped Sabrina neckline.

Tiers of English illusion were held by a profile crown of lace and crystals, centered with an organza bow. She carried a cascade of white carnations with aqua daisies.

Gail Clair of West Chestnut Street, Kingston, served as honor attendant. She wore an aqua chiffon gown in the empire style with matching Venise lace accenting the scooped neckline, sleeves, and waist. She wore an open-crown picture hat trimmed with matching lace, and carried a basket of carnations and apricot daisies.

Attendants were Linda Albertini, Lucas Avenue, Kingston; Doreen Lyke, Hurley; Paula Scerra, Herkimer; Cynthia Riseley, sister of the bridegroom, Kingston. Their apricot gowns and hats were fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant's and they carried baskets of carnations with aqua daisies.

Al Radel of Kingston, was best man. Ushers were Anthony Gough, Kingston; Donald Oakley and Michael O'Connor, both of Hurley; and Paul Carpino, Port Ewen, brother of the bride.

After the wedding, a reception for 200 guests was held at the Capri '400' Restaurant, Port Ewen.

For her wedding trip to the Grand Bahamas, the bride selected a pink organza dress with matching checked coat, white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School and Albany Business College, is secretary with Ralph J. Carpino Insurance Agency. Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School and Albany School of Insurance Brokers, is associated with Ralph J. Carpino Insurance Agency.

The couple will reside at 220 Hurley Avenue, Kingston.

Booth-Glick Marriage Announced

Miss Gayle Ellen Booth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Booth, 78 Sherry Lane, Kingston, became the bride of Ellis W. Glick, 1 Maverick Road, Woodstock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Glick, 680 Sheridan Road, Highland Park, Ill., on Saturday, June 7, at Albany in a double ring ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Dean Junior College, Franklin, Mass., and was awarded her AAS degree at Ulster County Community College. She is employed by Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Her husband is an alumnus of Purdue University and is employed by IBM.

Mr. and Mrs. Glick will make their home at 1 Maverick Road, Woodstock.

MRS. ELLIS W. GLICK

Degree for Lois C. Muller

Lois C. Muller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Muller, 143 Pine Street, Kingston, was graduated on May 31 in the 98th annual commencement exercises at Buffalo State University College.

Miss Muller, graduating magna cum laude, received a Bachelor of Science degree in Education which certifies her to teach both mentally retarded and elementary school children. She is a member of Kappa Delta Pi Honor Society in Education and Pi Omega Nu sorority. She was elected to appear in the 1969 edition of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. During her last year of study, she was awarded a federal traineeship in the field of mental retardation.

Miss Muller will be teaching in the Kingston Consolidated School system in the fall.

Mother Earns UCCC Degree

MRS. EMILY WEINSTEIN established 1930 we serve SUNDAY DINNER 7 days a week JAKE'S GRILL & RESTAURANT Phone 338-6260 gourmet

A mother of two children, Mrs. Emily Weinstein, of West Hurley, has earned a degree from Ulster County Community College and received a scholarship to continue her studies for a baccalaureate degree at the State University of New York at New Paltz.

Mrs. Weinstein, the wife of Kenneth Weinstein, graduated with honors from UCCC, which means that her average was better than 3.0 (B). Her graduation was the culmination of six years of part-time study while being both a wife and mother. Her children are Alan, aged 12, and Janet, aged 11.

"Mrs. Weinstein's accomplishment is noteworthy and commendable," said President George B. Erbstein, "since it portrays a trend by wives and mothers to continue their studies toward college degrees."

Mrs. Weinstein's ultimate goal after obtaining a four-year degree is to become a high school English teacher.

To continue her studies at New Paltz University, Mrs. Weinstein has received a scholarship from the V.A.W. of America, Inc., in Ellenville.

Final Meeting

St. Mary's Altar-Rosary Society held its final meeting of the season Monday, June 2 with President Barbara Betkowski presiding.

Members were reminded that June 30 is the deadline for payment of dues. Only paid-up members are entitled to benefits of the society and if dues are not paid by June 30, it will be an indication that the individual no longer wishes to be a member of the society and their name will be removed from the membership list.

Regular monthly meetings will resume in September.

Scholarship Award

Announcement of the presentation of a $100 scholarship to Miss Linda Wojcik of Lake Katrine as the outstanding girl student from Ulster Hose Company No. 5 Fire District was made recently by Mrs. LeRoy Thomas Jr. who presided at the regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary. This award is presented annually by the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Joseph Dyer was named chairman of the buffet supper to be served to members of Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association at a business meeting July 25 at the firehouse.

A new member, Mrs. James Barry, was welcomed into the organization.

Hostesses were Mrs. Al Klimchusky and Mrs. Joseph Senor.

The next meeting will take place July 10 at 7 p.m. Members are urged to note the change in time, since the meeting will adjourn to Tommy's Restaurant, High Street, Kingston, after the business meeting for the annual outing. No reservations are required.

Evening of Music

Rondout Valley Little League Ladies Auxiliary will present an evening of music with the "Friday Sound" Sunday, June 29 at 8 p.m. in Rondout Valley Central High School Auditorium.

The "Friday Sound" is a versatile group, with each talented member performing instrumental or vocal solos. They will present numbers ranging from jazz to Bossa Nova to some of today's most popular ballads.

The group consists of three girl vocalists, Gail Gardner, Chris Beckers, Patty Boyle; Scott Shultis, drums; Bill Curtis, piano and bongos; and Bob Farris, guitar, bass, and vocalizing such numbers as "I Gotta Be Me."

Proceeds from the event will be used for needed equipment for Rondout Valley Little League and Minor League. Tickets may be purchased from any team mother, or at the door. Refreshments will be served and awards made.

Robert J. Doynne will be master of ceremonies. Committee members are Mrs. Robert J. Doynne, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Fred A. Sichel, Mrs. Herbert Ayres Jr. and Mrs. Charles Sample.

Monday Meeting

Colonial Rebekah Lodge No. 48 will hold its regular meeting Monday evening, June 23, at 8 o'clock in the lodge rooms, corner Broadway and Brewster Streets. Exchange of regalias will take place and the new district deputy, President Dora Mittelstaedt and staff, will be introduced and welcomed.

All Rebekah members are invited.

Sister Anna Minkler of Queen Ulster No. 34 will report on the Rebekah Assembly meeting.

Strawberry Festival

The Dorlemlian Society of First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf Street and Tremper Avenue, this city, will hold a Strawberry Festival Saturday, June 28 from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. in Ramsey Hall.

The public is welcome.

Banquet Planned

The newly chartered Kings-ton Jaycees held their monthly meeting Wednesday, June 18 at 7:30 p.m. at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston, at which time arrangements for the installation banquet scheduled at Oehler's Mountain Lodge were discussed. Final plans will be announced.

Spring Luncheon

At the final spring luncheon of Town of Olive Women's Club which took place Tuesday, June 10, at Mountain Date Boarding House and Restaurant in Oliveria, attendance awards, donated by the restaurant proprietors, were presented to Mrs. Frank Snyder, Mrs. Fred Tisch and Miss Lou Schmorkel.

Members were reminded to deliver their homemade articles for the June 28 fair to the Library on Tuesday, June 24, after 10:30 a.m. As the Tuesday meeting will be the final meeting before the summer recess, all members are urged to attend.

Slide Program

Mrs. Virginia Smiley of Lake Mohonk presented an informative talk and slide program on the subject, "Attracting Birds to Your Garden," at the June 12 meeting of Tongore Garden Club, Town of Olive, which was held at the home of Mrs. George Scherrer in Boiceville. A large number of members were in attendance.

Mrs. Smiley had presented slide programs to this group in the past and had conducted a tour of Lake Mohonk grounds when the club visited there two years ago.

Mrs. Raymond Cruthers, president, presided at the brief business meeting and Mrs. Leroy Crosswell, program chairman, introduced the speaker.

After the meeting refreshments were served with Mrs. Richard Larsen acting as co-hostess.

Academy Concludes First Year

UCCC Scholarship Awards Made For Food Service Group

The public relations office of the Ulster County Community College in Stone Ridge has announced additional scholarship winners among graduates of the Class of 1969.

Miss Diane Matthews, an honor graduate, has received a scholarship from the local chapter of the American Association of University Women to continue her studies toward a baccalaureate degree.

A resident of 89 East Main Street, Port Ewen, Miss Matthews was named to the dean's list for scholastic achievement. She was a senator with the Student Government Organization and was a member of the Ski Club and Women's Club. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Matthews, Miss Matthews has worked for IBM, Kingston Post Office and YMCA Summer Day Camp.

Miss Antoinette LaBells, Bloomington, has received a scholarship from Kingston Savings Bank to continue her studies toward a baccalaureate degree. Miss LaBelle plans to transfer to the University of Connecticut where she will major in sociology and minor in government.

Miss LaBelle served as editor-in-chief of the college yearbook and as a freshman and sophomore senator with the Student Government Organization.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert James LaBelle of Bloomington, she was a 1967 graduate of Kingston High School.

Miss Joan J. Henke, mother of three children, has received two scholarships to continue her high education. A licensed private pilot, Mrs. Henke was a reporter on a Greene County newspaper and manager of a store's music department before enrolling at UCCC.

A resident of Purling, she ultimately wants to become a member of the teaching professions. She received scholarships from the Grace Van Benschoten Scholarship Fund and Dr. William J. Hagerty, member of the UCCC board of trustees.

Mrs. Ethel Autorino, a member and wife of a minister, has received a scholarship from Channel Master Corporation in Ellenville. She was selected to receive this scholarship by the Student Affairs Committee of the Faculty Organization.

Honors and awards highlighted the closing exercises held June 13 by Ulster Academy, as the area's independent secondary school completed its first year. Headmaster Raymond A. Nelson presided over the ceremonies.

The coveted Headmaster's Prize, awarded to the upperclassman who best represents the ideals of Ulster Academy, went to Harriet Hults. Mark Greenspan was awarded the Louis M. Schafer Memorial Athletic Award. Their names will be engraved on permanent plaques at the school.

Francesca Dordick received the Ranking Scholar Award for the Upper School, while Aimee Gerberg was honored as Ranking Scholar for the junior classes.

Departmental awards went to Arthur Carr, English; Mark Crisman, history; Eric Berger, science; Craig Moss, mathematics; and Roxanne Young, languages. The awards were made by the school's faculty members.

Mr. Nelson gave recognition to four women, trustees' wives and students' mothers, for their service to the Academy; they included Mrs. George Hutton, Mrs. Milton Paige, Mrs. Lawrence Siewers and Mrs. Robert Yallum. He then conducted a moving-up ceremony for the school's juniors, who now become the Academy's first senior class.

High honor certificates for their work throughout the year went to Eric Berger, Arthur Carr, Mark Crisman, Francesca Dordick, Aimee Gerberg, Suzanne Lown, Craig Moss and Tonia Wilson. Honor certificates were presented to Paul Anderson, Mary Conrad, Wayne Friedman, Harriet Hults, Julie Hutchins, Jay Levine, Steven Mezer, Lynelle Schwartz, Marnie Sprague, Joshua Sippen, Deborah Tondreau, Ed Tomaselli, Tad Wise, Roxanne Young, Naomi Katz and Jodie Keefe. Mr. Nelson noted that 24 of the 62 students achieved honor or high honor rank.

Robert Yallum, vice president of the Board of Trustees, spoke for the trustees on the purposes of the school and thanked all involved — staff, faculty and students — for the year's successes.

The audience of parents and friends of the school were entertained with scenes from Ionesco's "Rhinceros." In the cast were Naomi Katz, Francesca Dordick, Michael Bernard, Bruce Margopoulos, Eric Berger, Gregory Harris, Harriet Hults and Antonia Willson. Mr. Nelson directed the presentation.

Adhesive Tiles

Modernizing the ceramic tile decor of an old bathroom is as easy as having tiles of modern color and design put right over the old tiles, says the Tile Council of America. Tiling over tile, the council explains, is a relatively new method that was made possible by the development of a new, rubber-base adhesive.

KHS Class of '49 Planning Reunion

Plans for the 20th anniversary reunion of the Kingston High School Class of 1949 have been completed.

A cocktail party will be given on Friday, June 27 at the Dutch Rathskeller from 7 to 9 p.m. A dinner-dance will be held on Saturday, June 28 in Oehler's Mountain Lodge. Festivities will get underway at 7:30 p.m.

Don Sweeney, chairman of the event, asks that all reservations for both nights be made no later than Monday, June 23. Reservations will not be accepted at the door. Details about the social may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Pat Tesero Misasi.

Mr. and Mrs. James Tobin will be guests at the dinner-dance.

All committee members are reminded to attend the final meeting on June 23 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. Sweeney in Hurley.

Green Thumb Offers Tips on Lilac Culture

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

It's strange when a lilac fails to flower. Yet, this happened frequently this spring. When a lilac fails to flower, usually it's due to too much shade, too many young suckers, or severe drought in the late summer after the buds have formed. Sometimes heavy pruning (shearing off the tops) will cause non-flowering.

If your lilac bush is full of old wood, or tall growth, you can do some pruning now. Cut out about one-third of the oldest wood, plus any that's diseased or rotted. In some cases where a lilac bush is overgrown, full of tangled wood, your best bet is to get brutal and prune out the old heavy growth. Leave some of the young suckers to take over. Usually, after a bush has been pruned heavily, you will find no blooms are left on the rose cutting. Leave the jar on all summer. If you root the cutting in late fall, you can leave the jar on all winter.

Rabbit Injury: If you find your tomato, pepper or flowering plants cut off near the ground, it can be the work of cutworms or rabbits. You can tell rabbit injury by the sharp slant made on the stem about two inches above the ground. Cutworms cut the stems off flush with the ground. A light dusting of chlor-dane will banish cut worms, or they can resort to paper collars.

Green Thumb Clinic: A reader writes: "Every year we have wild asters, but they grow so tall. Any way to keep them short?"

Answer: Wild asters (New England or Michaelmas daisies) naturally grow tall and there isn't too much you can do to keep them short. Try pinching them back about now to see if they won't stay short and bushy.

Going Down the Garden Path? Make It an Attractive Trip

By MR. FIX

A garden walk can be both useful and attractive. It is the sort of project a homeowner can complete in a weekend or work on occasionally through the summer, since it is one you can start and stop easily.

The materials are varied in appearance, style and price. Some can be used in combination with others.

When most people think of a path through a garden, they think in terms of flagstone. They are expensive but you can cut down on costs by using them as stepping stones instead of trying to make a solid path.

If you are just going to flop them on top of the ground, the thicker and heavier ones are better, more stable. For a more formal walk, dig out enough earth for about two inches of sand to serve as a base. This will compensate for different thicknesses of stone. Make wood forms for the walk before pouring the sand. If you want to make it a semi-permanent walk, the easy way is to sweep in a mixture of one part cement, two parts fine sand (or a ready-mix of about the same proportions) and, with the cracks filled, wet down with a fine spray of water.

For a really permanent walk, make a standard concrete walk for a base first—about four inches of gravel and a couple of inches of concrete. Place the stones, sweep the dry mix into the cracks as mentioned above and wet down.

Bricks make an attractive walk and can be set in a bed of sand or in a concrete base just as flagstone. Since they are regular in shape, they are easier to butt together for a smooth walk.

Wood makes a different and attractive path. Whatever wood you use should be treated with a preservative. Redwood, cypress and cedar will be the most durable but you can make others durable by treating them.

Two-inch slabs cut from logs can be set in sand or right in the soil for a quick and easy walkway. Old railroad ties, cut into blocks, can be used the way you would bricks. If you plan to make your wooden path more lasting by setting the pieces in concrete, make certain the wood rests on gravel and not the concrete. This will allow for better drainage and lengthen the life of the wood.

Gravel, crushed stone and other loose material can make an appealing walk. Mix colors and textures for effect. To keep the material from scattering, edge the walk with wood strips or bricks set in the ground. Make the path about two inches thick.

Stones such as pebbles can be edged with a line of larger stones, since they do not scatter as easily.

With time, patience and a little energy, you can make your own paving material. Use a concrete mix or make your own of one part concrete, two parts sand and three parts gravel.

Make forms out of 1 x 2 lumber, about 20 inches wide, 2 1/2 feet long. Put the form on newspaper, fill with mix and smooth it off. You can use the slab as is or break it for irregular shapes. Or save work; dig wide, shallow holes (about two inches deep) where the path is and fill with concrete.

How to Slip a Rose: Technically, it's against the law to propagate a rose that's patented, but many home gardeners still start their own. It's a fairly simple job to do. Take a cutting about four inches long, snip off the lower leaves and insert the cutting into moist ground. Then place a fruit jar over the cutting and you'll find it roots within a few weeks. Community Action Programs Ready for Summer Launching KINGSTON Uptown, downtown and all around the town its beginning to look a lot like summer. The Kingston Summer Programs in Uptown and Rondout are ready for launching. The uptown program based at Clinton Avenue United Methodist Church has scheduled registration at the church this Monday from noon to 2 p.m. and 6 to 7:30 p.m. Parents must register their children in person. Personnel will be on hand to answer questions.

The program under the direction of Mrs. Eva Edwards will offer tutoring for children having problems with their school work, recreation for all and trip program throughout the community. Children from post kindergarten to seventh grade may take part. The Rondout program now in its second year plans a seven-week agenda of arts and crafts, music, play program, swimming and trips to West Point and New York City. An active winter program for more than 90 children was carried out January through May by Marist Brothers at Esopus. The summer session will be from July 7 to Aug. 22.

Stone Ridge Woman Named As Chairman

MRS. JAMES C. EMBREE

KINGSTON Mrs. James C. Embree of Stone Ridge has been named chairman of the committee to establish a homemaker service in Ulster County, announced Mrs. Robert C. Rolfe, President of the Junior League of Kingston.

Other Junior League members named to assist Mrs. Embree are Mrs. Charles Back, Mrs. John Crews, Mrs. John Cross, Mrs. Martin Haggerty, Mrs. Matthew Hasbrouck, Mrs. Bentley Jensen, Mrs. Joseph Russo, Mrs. Robert Murray, Mrs. Frank H. Reis, Mrs. John Shults Jr., and Mrs. John Spindler.

The committee is scheduled to organize a county board of directors that will plan for the hiring of a part time executive director, said the president. Recruitment and training of members is scheduled for the fall, she said.

Shokan Area VFW Installs

ASHOKAN Joseph Straub was installed as commander of the newly formed Dudley Palen Post 9595, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Monday night.

Both programs are jointly funded through the Ulster County Community Action Committee Inc. and by donations from the community. St. Mary's Church and Trinity United Methodist Church have cooperated in the Rondout program while Clinton Avenue Methodist and Old Dutch Churches have been the base for the three-year uptown program. Residents of the old 10th Ward have cooperated in setting up the year round sessions. Parents of the children involved in the Uptown Program have organized a ham dinner to be held June 28 to raise funds for the year round sessions. Many churches have made contributions for supplies. Anyone interested in more information on either of the programs may contact Mrs. Charles B. Slutzky, coordinator at the Kingston Community Action Office, 63 John Street, Kingston. Volunteers and donations are needed.

Summer Funds

Lawrence A. Quilty (R) representative of the Cardinal's Committee of Laity presents $800 check to Mrs. Nan Slutzky, coordinator of the Kingston Summer Program. On hand for the presentation are the Rev. John A. Farley, director of the Rondout program and Mrs. Eva Edwards, uptown director. The program for city youngsters is funded through the Ulster County Community Action Committee. (Freeman photo by Haines)

BOCES Supplies the Tools For County's Classrooms

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the third in a five part series detailing the many services to local education provided by the Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services. Today's article deals with the Instructional Resources and Assistance Center.

By JEAN F. DOLAN
NEW PALTZ

A behind the scenes team with a multitude of talents operates one of the most vital of Ulster County's educational aids.

The impressive title of Instructional Resources and Assistance Center does not begin to reveal this facet of Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services. Teachers know about it and students benefit from it whether they are aware of it or not. A visitor to the center located on the first floor of the BOCES building m. Route 32 North, New Paltz, can only stand in awe of the wealth of material stockpiled for distribution to individual schools throughout the county.

Create Materials

Much of the resource data has been produced and compiled by center personnel. Innovations in an everyday occurrence for the four full time professionals and six staff members. Creative graphic arts designed on the spot to suit the needs of the particular request add to the instructional package for use in the classroom.

Specifically, materials are requested by teachers for an area of study. IRAC responds by coordinating books, films and illustrative materials in accordance with the inquiry. When needed material is not available or is too expensive, staffers start creating and innovating. Once the material is used in the classroom it is filed away for future use.

One unit of study compiled by Mrs. Joan Cullen, IRAC staffer, covers family living data for use at various grade levels. Sex education units are carefully graded to each age level and teachers requesting the materials may use any or all of it in the classroom.

Another source material supplied through arrangement with the center are guest speakers or consultants. If a teacher wants a classroom guest or wishes to arrange a field trip in conjunction with a study area, she calls the center. From there on it is the center's job to make all arrangements.

Film Library

Educational films are another important source material available through IRAC. Approximately 900 sixteen millimeter films are circulated to schools in Ellenville, Highland, New Paltz, Onteora, Rondout Valley and Wallkill for a total of more than 8,000 showings during the current school year. Obviously it would be expensive and impractical for individual schools to maintain such an extensive film library. Through local and federal funds BOCES is able to maintain an up to date catalog of films on a wide variety of subjects.

Films and teacher resource packages are distributed through the BOCES delivery service. The yellow delivery van makes it rounds to all the schools twice weekly, dropping off the requested material and off times picking up payroll and attendance information for the Data Processing Center.

Aids for the teacher do not stop with classroom materials. In service workshops, professional resource literature for teachers, and media workshops. All help to keep the instructor well instructed.

During the 1968-69 school year in service workshops were offered in such current concerns as Drugs and Narcotics Education Programs, Contemporary Issues in Social Studies, and Pre-Kindergarten Education.

Teacher Helper

Media workshops have been held at the BOCES building and in the individual school districts to better acquaint teachers with the process of communicating ideas, utilization of media such as overhead transparencies, slides and film loops.

Another professional helper has been the recently formed Elementary Mathematics Council designed to keep up with the new math.

As a result of the leadership provided by BOCES, this group in its two year existence has produced the EMC bulletins, the teach-in and its current project curriculum work committee. Through associations with other math teachers in the seven school districts members develop newer approaches to learning such as measuring "by thumb and footprint."

The curriculum work committee is developing kits containing all materials necessary for use of selected "laboratory type" activities in the classroom.

Student contact is very direct for IRAC in its senior seminar program. An enrichment plan for the top seniors from New Paltz, Highland, Wallkill, Ellenville, Onteora, Rondout Valley, Kingston and Saugerties, the seminars help students become aware of current issues while deciding future fields to conquer.

Problems Explored
With student unrest a fact of campus life one of the seminar topics during the past school year was Problems of Our Society: Activism, Conformity and Discrimination. Others included Playwriting, Dramatic Literature and Acting, Korean Karate: The Art of Tae Kwan Do and The World of the Guitar: Classical, Flamenco and Folk. Truly a diversified offering.

Once again, all of these offerings would be close to impossible to present by individual school districts but are quite possible through the cooperative efforts of BOCES.

To date this series has dealt with the lesser known aspects of the Board of Cooperative Educational Services — lesser known, that is, to the general public. In the next article the student programs and in particular vocational education will be explored.

Kingston Post Picks Van Dine Commander

KINGSTON John E. Van Dine of 14 Stanley Street was elected 51st commander of Kingston Post 150, at the annual meeting of the local post recently at the American Legion Memorial Building, 18 West O'Reilly Street.

Van Dine, a World War II veteran who served in the Coast Guard, has been a member of Kingston Post for six years. He has served previously on the executive committee and been on the annual dance committee as finance chairman in addition to holding other assignments in recent years. He is married to the former Marian Rienzo who is also a member of Unit 150 Auxiliary. The couple have four children. Van Dine is employed by International Business Machines as a Technical Associate in the Industrial Engineering Department.

Other officers elected were Robert Ackert, Clarence Hyde and John Kuehn, vice-commanders; Albert E. Teetsel, adjutant; John Salvatore, assistant adjutant; John Quigley, treasurer; the Rev. John G. Russell, chaplain; Charles Culver, service officer; Meyer Kaplan, welfare officer; Paul Gardner, athletic officer; John Lancer, sergeant-at-arms; Ervin DeWitt, Alton Feistel, Gerard Geuss and George Heppner, executive committee members; Robert V. Delaney, trustee for three years and Fred Bayona, historian. Retiring Commander Everett Emmick will also serve on the executive committee ex-officio. Past commander Albert O. Sonnenberg was the installing officer.

Delegates to the Ulster County American Legion organization meetings for 1969-70 are Van Dine, J. Richard Schabot, Delaney, William F. Hanley, Kaplan, Sonnenberg and Harry G. Maisenhelder. Elected alternate delegates were Heppner, Frank T. Roedell, Thomas Bohann, Ervin N. DeWitt, Gardner, Lancer and Emmick.

County Vols Discuss Convention

ELLENVILLE Convention Committee Tuesday evening, July 15 in Ulster Hose Firehouse. The business meeting and election of officers will be held July 25 at 8 p.m. at Ulster Hose Firehouse. The annual firemen's parade will be held Saturday, July 26 starting at 4 p.m. on Albany Avenue Extension. The reviewing stand will be in front of the State of New York Bank on Albany Avenue.

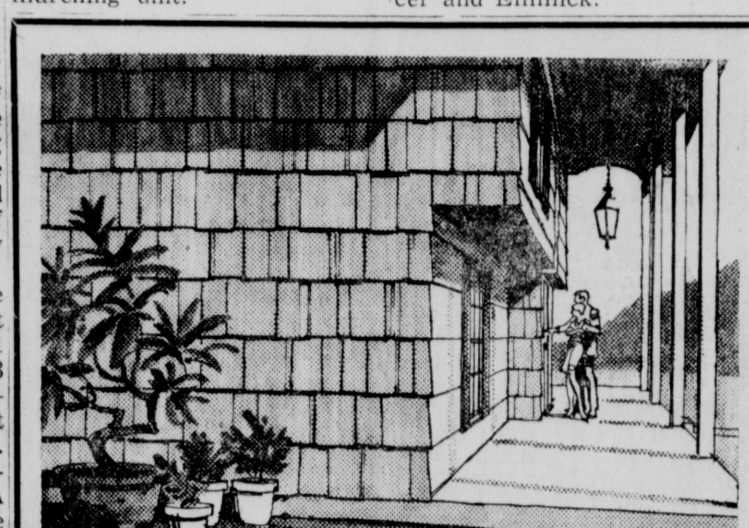

At the Tuesday night session of the vols, President Martin Petersen Sr., reported that the deadline for banquet ticket reservations will be July 20. The barbecue dinner will be held 6:30 p.m. on July 24 at Ulster Hose Company Firehouse grounds Albany Avenue Extension. The annual entertainment will follow the dinner at Glenrie fire station of Ulster Hose on Route 9W, Glenrie.

Petersen said the Board of Directors will meet with the firemen's parade for any company requiring a musical marching unit.

Ray Morris Jr., county fire coordinator in his May report noted a total of 1,241 calls: 131 fires, 7 Mutual Aid calls; 3 inter-county calls; 38 emergencies; 4 false alarms, 30 first alarms and 1 fatal drowning.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE KINGSTON DAILY FREEMAN

Young Turks Threat to Herdegen Veterans

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

KINGSTON
Ulster County's Old Guard has dominated 16 of the last 18 Herdegen Memorial golf tournaments and Leon Randall is a solid pick to make it four straight titles this week.

But the evidence is mounting that one of the Young Turks or new faces in the 36-player will qualify for the traditional Herdegen Jacket when play ends around 2 p. m. Sunday at Woodstock Country Club.

Among them Randall (7), George Hughes (4) and Bill Van Aken (3) have accounted for 14 of the 18 titles. One-time winners include William (Buzzy) Costello, Clarence Raichle, Rick Barthel and Harvey Bostic.

Randall is the only one of the current Big Four who has remained consistent in recent years. He goes into the 19th straight. He lost his bid for an eighth title when Buzzy Costello topped him in five extra hole playoff in the 1963 tournament.

Hughes in Streak

Hughes, who appears to be the hottest player of the moment, hasn't won since 1961 and Van Aken's third and last crown came in 1958, a long drought for the perennial Woodstock Country Club champion, who transferred to Wiltwyck between seasons.

Hughes recently tied the Woodstock Country Club record with a blistering 32.29, a couple of weeks ago and has been touring his home layout at Twaalfskill in the low 30's. He is not awed by the Wiltwyck challenge and this could be his year.

The two best adult newcomers appear to be a pair of Saugertiesians — Charlie Brown (that's his name!) and Mark Fleischer.

Brown was runnerup to young Ted Decker of Ellenville in the Herdegen qualifier with 35-37-72. He matched par figures the first time he ever saw the tricky layout.

Win Service Titles

Fleischer, who came to Kingston IBM from Forbes AFB in Topeka, Kansas, after a five and one-half year stint in the U.S. Air Force, won the base championship there in 1967.

Prior to being based at Forbes, he was at the Tachikawa Air Base just outside Tokyo and a member of the Kasumikieseki Country Club where the World Cup Matches were held in 1957. He had a handicap of 2 and was the club champion in 1965 and 1966. He also won a base title while stationed at James Connally AFB in Waco, Texas.

He was separated from the Air Force with the rank of captain in June of 1968.

Fleischer attended San Francisco State College in San Francisco, Calif., graduating in 1962. He was a member of the golf varsity two years and each year his team won the conference championship.

Blakely Outstanding

David Blakely of Kingston,

who was the No. 1 player with Ulster County Community, is a solid dark horse. He plays Wiltwyck as his home base, hits tremendous woods and has a putting touch comparable to Randall. If Blakely can stay close to Randall and Bostic at Wiltwyck, he will have a clear shot at the title.

Wood Led Qualifiers

Young Ted Wood of Rondout, who led the qualifier with 69 heads a super high school cast that includes Joe Bostic and Werner Kolln of Kingston High; Scotty Dean and John Buoy-master of Onteora High and Ed Lawrence of Rondout. There could be a winner lurking in this group.

Harvey Bostic has won it only once but can never be overlooked because of his brilliant mastery of Wiltwyck on a good day.

Randall won the 1968 tournament with a 36-hole score of 2-under-par 142. That figure could be shattered Saturday and Sunday.

Bill Van Aken set the Herdegen all-time record of 275 with rounds of 67, 68, 74, 66 in 1958, his last winning season.

Tee time is 8:30 p. m. Saturday at Wiltwyck and Sunday at Woodstock.

Shamsky Proving A Point to Mets

(By The Associated Press)
Art Shamsky, whose insistence that he didn't belong in the minor leagues fell on deaf ears among the New York Mets early in the season, has quite a listening audience now that he is proving he belongs in the majors.

Since his return from the minors Shamsky has spoken eloquently and persuasively with his bat, hitting .351 with nine runs batted in and three homers in 21 games.

He made a big impression on Philadelphia, too, Thursday night by cracking two singles and two homers as the Mets edged the Phillies 6-5.

He kept the Mets in the game by driving in three runs and scoring three until Ken Boswell was able to slam a two-out, two-run single in the ninth inning for the victory.

But Shamsky wasn't the only four-hit man of the day as Lou Brock's fourth hit, a homer, broke a tie and sent St. Louis to a 5-3 victory over Montreal and Lee May four hits for Cincinnati before Tommy Helms' double in the ninth gave the Reds an 8-7 triumph over San Francisco.

Don Wilson and the Houston Astros beat San Diego 4-2 in the only other game.

Shamsky was one of the lesser known pames who threatened to retire this season when the Mets decided to ship him to their Tidewater farm club at the beginning of the season after a bad back hampered his spring training.

The 27-year-old left-handed swinger, who never hit more than .260 in four major league seasons as a part-time player, balked at the demotion, but like the rest of the retirees, he changed his mind. And after proving himself at Tidewater, the Mets sent for him and he

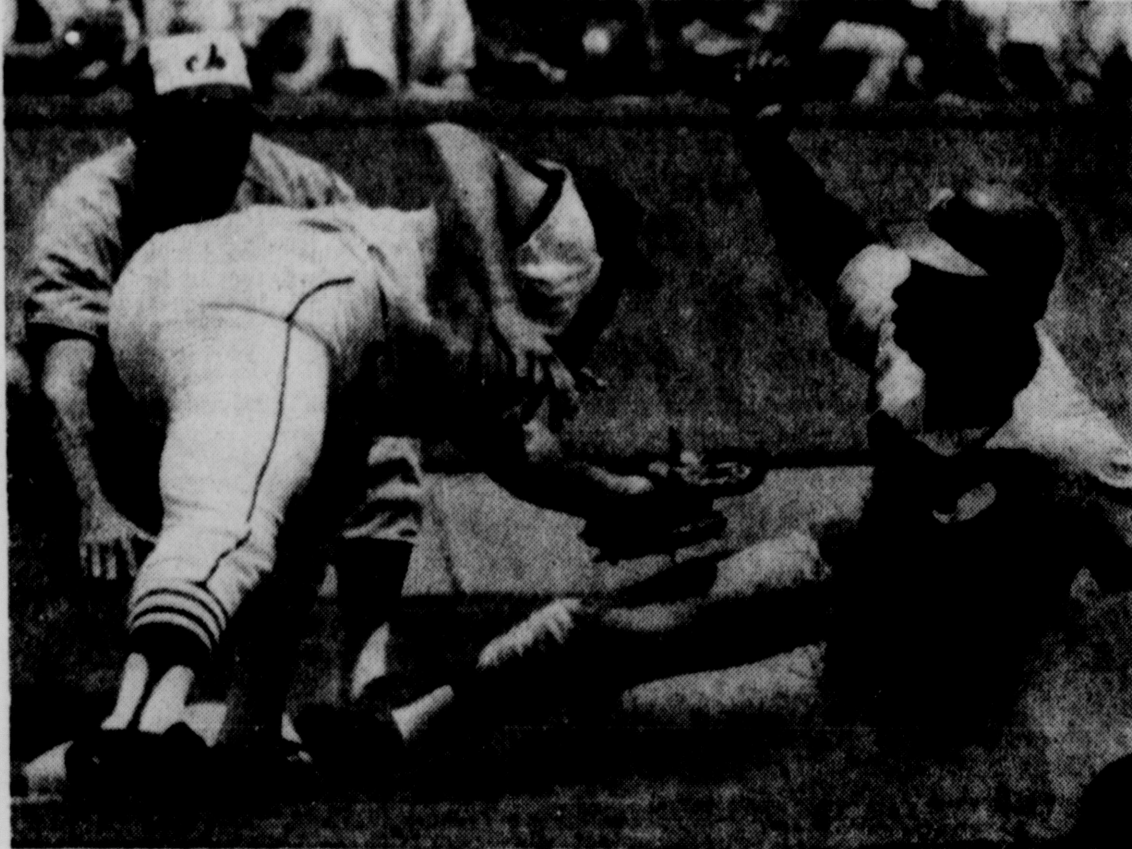

He singled and scored the Mets' first run, and after the Phillies moved ahead 3-1 on homers by Mike Ryan and Cookie Rojas off Tom Seaver, Shamsky tied the game with a two-run homer in the sixth.

He broke that deadlock in the eighth with another homer, but Rick Joseph put the Phillies ahead 5-4 in the eighth with a two-run double.

Shamsky's slugging didn't go for naught as Boswell connected in the ninth for the surprising Mets, who pulled within 5½ games of the idle first place Chicago Cubs in the National League's East Division.

Preserves Osprey

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. Forest Service plans to set aside an area in Oregon's DesChutes National Forest for preservation of the American osprey, a fish-eating hawk in danger of extinction. The management area, on which no shooting will be allowed from April 1 to Sept. 30 each year, includes the Crane Prairie Reservoir and a 5,300-acre strip around it.

McNally Is 10-0

(By United Press International)
Dave McNally is getting to the point where he's starting to draw distinguished audiences.

McNally pitched a two-hitter Thursday night to gain his 10th victory without a defeat as the Baltimore Orioles downed the Washington Senators 2-0 before a crowd which included President Nixon.

The President, who last week watched Oakland's Reggie Jackson put on a slugging display, arrived at the game in the eighth inning as Don Buford, who doubled and took third on a bunt single, scored the Orioles' first run as Frank Robinson hit into a double play.

McNally, who allowed only singles to Tim Cullen and Paul Casanova, walked one and struck out five in winning his 12th consecutive game over a two-year span. But despite his sizzling start this season, McNally refused to consider the prospect of a 30-victory season.

"Oh, no," said McNally emphatically. "I'm not even thinking about 30. With the pitching staff we have, I won't even get enough starts to win 30."

Elsewhere, Minnesota ripped California 8-1, Chicago outlasted Seattle 13-10, Boston blanked

Cleveland 3-0, and New York downed Detroit 5-3 in the only other games scheduled.

Ray Culp pitched a two-hitter for his 10th victory of the season and Carl Yastrzemski snapped out of a mild batting slump with a two-run homer to lead the Red Sox over the Indians.

Culp, now 10-4, struck out eight batters to tie the Indians' Sam McDowell for the league lead in strikeouts with 104. He did not allow a Cleveland runner to reach second base.

Yastrzemski, hitless in his 10 previous at-bats, followed George Thomas' first inning single with his 19th home run. Thomas singled in the third Boston run in the sixth.

The Yankees scored three unearned runs in the second inning on pitcher Earl Wilson's three-base throwing error en route to their victory over the Tigers. The score was tied at 1-1 in the second when Gene Michael and Jake Gibbs singled and moved up on a sacrifice. Wilson walked Horace Clarke to fill the bases before throwing Jerry Kenney's high bouncer into right field, allowing all three runners to score.

Sacrifice flies by Joe Pepitone and Jimmie Hall accounted for the other two New York runs. Dick McAuliffe hit his ninth homer for the Tigers.

Rod Carew drove in two runs with a single and a double to raise his league leading batting average to .374 and lead the Twins over the Angels. Rookie Dick Woodson pitched a three-hitter to boost his record to 4-2.

Bob Allison drove in three runs and Carew two as the Twins scored five unearned runs off the Angels, who committed four errors.

Scandalous Takes Raceway Feature

MONTICELLO — The featured fourth race at Monticello Raceway on Thursday night was taken by Scandalous, a seven-year-old mare by Rodney Zena Hanover driven by Levi Harner, who cut the mile in 2:08.3.

As commendable as was that effort over the mile which carried a purse of $2500 for the B-1 trotting competitors, it was outshone by what occurred in the three preceding races.

The daily double combination at Monticello Raceway Thursday night was more than satisfactory to those who held tickets bearing the numbers 2 and 4.

They were rewarded with $126.20 for each two dollars for their correct guess. The horses involved were Missie Marvel, Frank Brown the driver in the first; and Brigid's Pride, Marcel Lefebvre driving, in the second. But the daily double Thursday night was taken by Scandalous, a seven-year-old mare by Rodney Zena Hanover driven by Levi Harner, who cut the mile in 2:08.3.

Even Uncle Sam was happy, because the pay-off was $953.40, which meant that each winner had to record his victory for income tax purposes because the amount was greater than $600.

The horses that produced the windfall were Sam Spears, Steve Knoblock the driver, and Sheer Genius, with George Gilmore at the reins. Sam Spears was the one with the Midas Touch... he paid off at $85.00, $34.80 and $8.00.

There was an even larger perfecta payoff at Monticello

... on August 9th, 1967, on that date, a stakes race produced a perfecta worth $1,005.80, the biggest ever seen at the Mighty M. Joed came in first to pay $13.50, and the place horse, Dale Barmin, had a staggering place price of $42.40. The winning combination was unique... one and ten, and for the time being, so was the perfecta.

Lady Driver Tonight
Bobbe Huntress, a talented lady driver from Gouverneur, N. Y., who made a brief appearance at the Mighty M a few weeks ago for an international competition, will be returning for a longer stay Friday night.

Miss Huntress, widely acclaimed as one of the finest lady drivers in all of harness racing arrived here recently with four head, three trotters, and one free legged pacing mare.

The star of her small but select stable, trotter Seymour J will be in action Friday evening when he takes on six other speedy trotters in the evening's secondary feature, fourth race, an A/B1 Handicap Trot for a purse of $3000.

Seymour J, a cool 5-1 selection, has made only one start so far this season.

However, last year, the brown gelding son of Bernie Hanover, won no less than thirteen races and accumulated a bank roll of some $22,876 from thirty starts.

He also finished second four times, and third once.

In his only pari-mutuel start this year, Seymour J was the victim of a break and finished far off the leaders in a contest at Rideau Carleton raceway in Ottawa, Canada.

Expected to be the toughest opponents for Seymour J are Niagara Blaze, Ida Rodney and Valiant Jimmie.

Niagara Blaze from Clint Galbraith's powerful barn is dropping in class and despite being unable to finish better than third in four starts is rated as the 3-1 morning line favorite.

UCAL SWEEP: Miss Georgette Dunn (L) holding the UCAL softball trophy, presents league basketball trophy to Georgina Gantner, captain of Rondout's championship girls team in both basketball and softball. (R) Sharon Elston holds the UCAL volleyball trophy for a three-sport sweep for the Rondout girls.

Rondout Valley Lassies Sweep Trio UCAL Sports

STONE RIDGE — Rondout Valley High School's girls' team did quite well during the past school year, winning Ulster County Athletic League championships in three sports, basketball, volleyball and softball.

The girls went 4-0 in softball and 4-1 in each of the other two sports.

Awards were presented to the members of all the girls' teams at the Awards Banquet staged on June 5 for UCAL girls athletes at New Paltz High School.

Miss Georgette Dunn, coach at Rondout, was chairwoman of the UCAL Women's Division.

Miss Dunn said, "I am quite pleased with what the girls have accomplished, but I feel that we could have won even more titles than we did if more time could be devoted to coaching."

Miss Dunn pointed out that expansion of the girls' program has been going on for five years.

"The programs have expanded with more emphasis being put on girls' sports. Gym class activities have also grown and scheduling has become a slight problem. It is not possible to do as much as I would like to," she concluded.

In addition to the intramural and interscholastic programs, the school also fields girls' teams for the Annual UCAL Sports Day in basketball, volleyball and track. Members of the squads are selected from the best intramural players, who aren't members of varsity or junior varsity teams.

Pack Lies: Joe Namath

SEATTLE (UPI)—New York Jets quarterback Joe Namath Thursday described a recent magazine article accusing him of connections with the Mafia as "nothing but a pack of lies."

He said the article in Sports Illustrated was full of innuendoes "designed to degrade me personally and professionally."

Questioned about known gamblers frequenting his New York restaurant, Bachelors III, Namath said as far as he was concerned, a customer was a customer and said if he had associated with known gamblers "it never affected me or my teammates."

He said he had not talked with newsmen from Sports Illustrated, Life or Time Magazine, all Luce publications, in three years although he said he once was accused of beating up a Sports Illustrated editor.

Namath, in Washington to play in the Pat Boone Celebrity Golf Tournament at Ocean Shores, picked up some support in his battle with pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle at a news conference at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport.

Boone, the singer, met Namath at the airport and sided with the controversial quarterback who says he wants to continue to play pro football.

Boone, who waited almost two hours for Namath's plane delayed by the air traffic controller's slowdown, said, "I agree with you, Joe," that you've done nothing wrong. A celebrity's private life and public life constantly overlap and they make all kinds of rules and then continually have to make exceptions."

Namath said he hoped to meet with Rozelle next week but indicated nothing definite had been set. "I want to play football but I am not optimistic," he remarked.

In New York, Namath's press representative said Joe's attorney, James Walsh, was "confering with the top legal experts in the country" about possible libel suits against publications carrying articles tying Namath to the Mafia and alleging dice games took place in his New York apartment.

"The article appearing in the recent issue of Sports Illustrated accusing me of cooperation with mobsters in the running of dice games in my New York apartment are innuendo, laden combinations of lies and fantasy based on viciousness and malice designed to degrade and defame me personally and professionally," he quoted Namath as saying.

Mrs. Lowe First In Throw-Out

KINGSTON — Mrs. Kenneth Lowe carded a net 74-25-49 to lead Wiltwyck Country Club women in a Throw Out tournament this week.

Under the rules, the three worst holes were eliminated from the player's score.

Other leaders:

Mrs. Raymond Sawyer, 76-24-52; Mrs. Gerald Gruber, 77-25-52; Mrs. Lloyd LeFever, 84-31-53; Mrs. Seymour Werbelowsky, 84-31-53; Mrs. Herbert Martin, 79-25-54.

Davis and Berardi Win in Blind Bogey

Mrs. Burton Davis and Mrs. Eugene Berardi, who carded net 38's, were declared winners in the blind bogey draw at The Twaifskiff Club.

Other winners included: Mrs. George Schneider (36), Mrs. N. Levan Haver (41) and Mrs. Michael Gropusso (39).

Recreation Story

PART TWO
By MORT LAFFIN

KINGSTON — "People have become participants, not spectators and it is up to us to gear our program along this line."

Thus spoke William Beal, Superintendent of Recreation in Poughkeepsie.

"The needs of the public have changed," he went on. "People don't crowd down to the ball parks to watch anymore, they come to play and we have to be prepared to handle them," said Beal.

The recreation department in Poughkeepsie is making every attempt to serve the people in the various areas of recreation. The City's program runs the gamut from archery to a planned winter sports complex.

Beal provided us with a complete run-down of present projects and proposed undertakings by his department in the future.

In baseball and softball, the department organizes, staffs and runs the Minor League, Little League, Junior League, Senior League and Twilight League. It takes care of umpires, maintenance, statisticians and provides some of the equipment, doing the same for the Slow Pitch and Major Slow Pitch softball leagues.

Numerous Playgrounds
Games are played at River-view Field, Pulaski Park and Spratt Park and also at the various playground fields that dot the area. All of these are handled by the city. Beal and his department are also in charge of playoffs for the various leagues.

Riverview, Spratt and Pulaski have lights and these fields are available to schools and groups for a rental fee, with the City providing the maintenance.

When football season rolls around, the recreation department runs the Pop Warner League, providing some equipment, although the balance of this is provided by sponsors and through donations.

Most of this would be con-

Basketball season finds the city running the only league in town at Our Lady of Lourdes High School gym. Poughkeepsie has a working agreement with the school, allowing Lourdes to practice football at Spratt, in return for the use of the gym.

During the summer, the recreation department staffs and maintains two swimming pools at Spratt Park, one at Pulaski Park and five wading pools at various locales. It also has seven outdoor courts for basketball, five tennis courts, a boating ramp at the foot of Main Street hill, Regatta Row, which is used by the Mid-Hudson Schoolboy Rowing Association and various summer clubs, free of charge.

Archery facilities are available near the Spratt Park complex are maintained, with some assistance, by the Dutchess Bowmen.

Sponsors L.L. Tournery
The City also sponsors the Little League tournament and the tennis championship.

Golfers are well thought of in Poughkeepsie, with the city providing a nine-hole public links course at College Hill. The Alexander Caven Memorial Course is completely staffed and maintained at the city's expense and an annual tournament for golfers from all over Dutchess County is staged by the city.

Plans are also in the works for an 18-hole public links course at the Spratt Park area. The money for this is being provided from the will of James McCann, a local business man who passed away and left his money for such services in the city.

Plans for the future also include a marina, new special playgrounds, development of the Morgan Lake area for fishing and boating, an all-purpose outdoor complex for tennis, concerts, badminton, plus a snow maker for skiing and tobogganing.

Most of this would be constructed at College Hill, were the department now stages concerts and fireworks displays.

Final Adult Program
Add to this one of the finest adult recreation programs for Senior citizens in the state, according to Beal, and you have the over-all picture of the recreation program in Poughkeepsie.

Beal concluded, "I think that our program covers every phase of recreation for the public. Many things are run in connection with the Jewish Community Center, the Catholic Youth Organization, the Young Men's Christian Association, the Jaycees and other community groups, giving us a good, overall picture."

"In the future, I would like to see a concert stage, play house and a cultural center, bringing the fine arts into our recreational scope," he said.

Glascio Athletic Club's team in the City Baseball League will hold its final pre-season practice Sunday at 6 p.m. at Dietz Stadium.

Bill Zeeh reached the finals by a default win over Ted Fisher in his first match. In his second appearance Zeeh won over Owen Ridegley, of Monroe, 7-5 and 6-2. In the semi-finals Zeeh fought off a tough battle by Gary VanderVeer of Poughkeepsie to win, 12-10 and 6-2.

That set the stage for the finals with Peschel being the victor for the second year in a row.

Rhodesians Vote On Status Today

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesians vote today on a final break with Britain and constitutional changes that would entrench white supremacy into the middle of the next century. The predominantly white electorate is expected to say "yes" to both.

Heavy balloting was expected in the two-question referendum, which asks a yes or no vote on the constitutional changes and whether this African country should become the world's newest republic. The country, rich in minerals, tobacco and grain crops is almost as big as California.

Prime Minister Ian Smith's government is expected to get a heavier plurality on the republic question—70 per cent or better—than on the new constitution. The latter would eliminate franchise on merit and substitute a tribally divided vote for blacks based on how much they pay in taxes.

Besides elimination of African vote power into the 21st century, the constitution would give the government stiff new police controls without the need to go to Parliament to proclaim a state of emergency.

Rhodesia has 4.4 million Africans and about 237,000 whites. There are 90,000 eligible voters, most of them white.

The former self-governing British colony broke away from the crown on Nov. 11, 1965, when Smith announced Rhodesia's independence. Negotiations with London to legalize Rhodesia's independence foundered because Britain insisted on guarantees for ultimate African majority rule.

U.N. sanctions have had little effect as the Portuguese colonies and the "apartheid" regime in South Africa openly trade with Rhodesia, and Rhodesian exports find their way to neighboring black-ruled African countries.

There is some opposition to the referendum from the small multiracial Center party, two weak African parties, businessmen tired of evading economic sanctions and many clergymen.

In New York, African and Asian members of the U.N. Security Council today were pushing the toughest resolution yet for council action against Rhodesia. But diplomats said it would fall two votes short of the nine needed for passage.

The resolution condemns the proposed republican constitution; amplifies the 1968 trade embargo and extends it to South Africa and Portuguese-ruled Mozambique, and urges Britain to "take all necessary measures, including the use of force," to curb the Rhodesian rebellion.

Red Hook High To Graduate 93

RED HOOK

Ninety-three students will graduate from Red Hook High School Monday in the 63rd commencement exercises.

No guest speaker is scheduled, as the practice at Red Hook is for four seniors to give talks instead.

Carol Stein, salutatorian, will speak first, followed by Student Council President Ralph Cort, Senior Class President William Barringer, and valedictorian Joyce Hempel.

All guests are asked by the administration to be seated by 7:55 p. m. so that the procession may begin on time at 8.

Diplomas will be presented by District Principal Russell J. Keefe and Board President Frances Rabbett.

A baccalaureate service will be held Sunday 8 p. m. The Rev. Leonard Neils of Christ Episcopal Church will deliver the address.

Invocation will be offered by the Rev. Martin J. Biglin; the Rev. William Feikert will read the scripture; the Rev. Russell E. Sargent will offer prayer and the Rev. Roger M. Leonard will give the benediction.

Conservative Edge In Irish Election

DUBLIN (AP) — Prime Minister Jack Lynch's conservative Fianna Fail party appeared today to have won a razor-thin majority in Ireland, parliamentary elections. Lynch called it "a great victory."

With 17 of the 143 contested seats still undecided, the Fianna Fail—Soldiers of Destiny—held 66 seats in the Dail, the lower house of Parliament. The Centrist Fine Gael—Irish party—had captured 44 seats, and the leftist Labor party won 16.

The vote confounded politicians and writers who had predicted that Lynch's party would lose its two-seat edge in the Dail and said the prime minister would have to form a minority government or call for new elections in the fall.

Fianna Fail had campaigned on its record of encouraging industrial growth and increasing welfare benefits during its 12 years in power. Fine Gael called for expanded welfare aid and a crash housing program. The Laborites, boosted by the candidacy of several intellectuals and well-known farmers for the party's first national campaign effort, were pushing for establishment of a welfare state and for giving workers a voice in industry.

Second Time Around

HOUSTON (UPI)—A sandy-haired, muscular young man entered the Rice Food Market Wednesday and robbed the cashier of $9,500. Workers in the store recognized him—he was the same man who robbed the store of $9,300 May 7.

Lynch's entire Cabinet was re-elected. Dail seats also went to Fine Gael leader Liam Cosgrave, President Eamon de Valera's son Vivion de Valera and Laborite Conor Cruise O'Brien.

O'Brien, 51, one of his party's recent recruits, is a former humanities professor at New York University and was the chief U.N. representative in the Congo during the chaotic days of Congolese independence in 1961. He quit the U.N. post amid a flurry of accusations against the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld's handling of the crisis and accepted the vice chancellorship of Ghana's university.

In December 1967, he was arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace while participating in a demonstration in New York against the Vietnam war but was acquitted a few months later.

Reports on Study Program in Greece

Kostas Cherevas, New York City, supreme president of American Hellenic Educational Progressive Association, paid a visit to a combined Hudson Valley AHEPA meeting, held recently at St. George Greek Orthodox Church Hall.

The meeting was hosted by the Kingston Chapter No. 429 and attended by delegations from Mid-Hudson Chapter No. 338, Poughkeepsie, and Hudson Valley Chapter No. 115, Newburgh.

Kingston president George Pappas who presided introduced Diamond Vassolas, of New York City. He spoke a few words on the work of the AHEPA in the state.

Cherevas spoke about project Anatolia. AHEPA and the Greek government are co-sponsoring by sending 100 boys and girls of Greek-American descent from 36 states in the United States to spend eight weeks this summer studying at the Anatolia American University in Salonika, Greece in addition to spending two weeks traveling in Greece.

There are 12 from New York State. The money to send these boys and girls was raised by the AHEPA members in the United States. The Greek government will pay half of the expenses.

The program was so successful that 150 additional boys and girls will go to Greece this summer on a similar program. He then explained why the AHEPA Charter plane flights were cancelled.

AHEPA was founded in 1922 at Atlanta, in order to assist Greek immigrants in the process of becoming Americanized. The concept of AHEPA today is to help the Americanized people of Greek descent and Hellenophiles spread the word of Hellenism.

Attending from Newburgh were George Katsoras district marshal; Jason Goumas, president and Takis Karnavezos, secretary.

Attending from Poughkeepsie were Steven Pechewys, past state president; William Chamuris and Angelo Verven. State officers attending were: Diamond Vassolas, New York City, state president; James Plevritis, Yonkers, state secretary and Nicholas Cherevas, Troy, state director.

Army Expects 50,000 Deserters Listed for Current Fiscal Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The increase in desertions is cause for concern, the figures are still far lower than during World War II and the Korean War.

Typical deserters, Conner said, are not philosophical or religious war objectors, but misfits "who because they cannot get satisfaction from their commander on the ground or because the commander is not far enough along in his development to handle their problems, who will take off and go AWOL."

Conner said the Army has established a program to help overcome the problems of dissatisfaction and undisciplined personnel.

"We have opened up a training facility at Ft. Riley, Kan., he said. "This is a rehabilitation type facility where we're having a pretty good luck in taking a young man who has gone AWOL two or three times, put him under the right kind of leadership and right kind of trainers, and we have turned them into useful soldiers."

Conner also touched on the unrest on some college campuses concerning military training program.

He said the Army is moving to meet some student objections by dropping nonproductive drill sessions and adding additional "academic-type subjects to make it more palatable."

Conner, who said the 50,000 figure was a projection based on the first quarter of the fiscal year ending June 30, also stated that over 500 soldiers deserted to foreign nations.

"In this group," he testified, "that are deserting to foreign countries it runs the gamut from the extreme pacifist to the no-good drug addict who is just no good."

Ahavath Israel

Religious services are held at Congregation Ahavath Israel every Friday 8 p.m., Saturday 9:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., Sunday 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., and every weekday 7 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Friday 8 p.m., the services will be read by Rabbi Harry Z. Schechtman, who will also deliver a message for the week based on the Bible reading of Korach in which the rebellion of Korach against Moses is described. The liturgy will be chanted by Cantor David Katchen. The Yuhrtzeiten of the coming week will be announced and the Mourners Prayer recited.

During the Saturday morning services, the Bar Mitzvah of Jeffrey Starkman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Starkman, will be observed, as the Bar Mitzvah boy is called to the reading of the Torah. The Bar Mitzvah lesson will be given by Rabbi Schechtman, who will also present the celebrant with the various religious gifts of the Sisterhood, the Talmud Torah and the congregation.

Temple Emanuel

Andrea Meyer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Meyer, will become Bas Mitzvah during sabbath services at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue, Friday 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Meyer will kindle the Sabbath candles. Dr. Meyer and Andrea will lead the congregation in chanting the Kiddush prayer. Following the service, Dr. and Mrs. Meyer will sponsor a reception in honor of their daughter's Bas Mitzvah.

During the memorial portion of the following will be invoked: Morris Kalish, Dr. Curtis Bight, Pauline Weisburger, Clara Frisberg, Pollett Wolff and Jennie Joslovitz.

Board of trustees will meet tonight 8 o'clock.

Sabbath services will be conducted throughout the summer Fridays 7:30 p.m.

Nurse Groups Make Plans For Fall Luncheon Meet

KINGSTON additional members. There are committees in the townships of Marlboro, Shandaken, Woodstock, Walkkill, Saugerties, Olive, Marletown, Walker Valley, and Plattekill.

The next meeting of the executive committee will be Sept. 8, president, presided.

It was reported that two successful blood drawings were held in the townships of Woodstock and Shandaken. The planning and execution of the blood drawings is just one of the many services carried on free of charge by the Public Health Nursing Committees.

Discussion was held on the fall luncheon for the nine Public Health Nursing Committees in Ulster County. It was voted to hold the luncheon at the Sawyerkill Country Club Restaurant, Saugerties, during the month of October. A prominent speaker giving a program on a most vital subject is being planned.

Chairman on arrangements for the luncheon is Mrs. Sally Brinnier. Program chairmen are Mrs. Lillian Crosswell and Miss Helen Geneis. Details will be announced at a later date.

It was announced that even though most of the Nursing Committees do not hold regular meetings during the summer months they will continue their many services to the public, such as assisting at the health clinics and the maintaining of loan closets. The loan closets are equipped with items to assist the patient recuperating at home.

Dear Abby

Each Day: Mom's Day

DEAR ABBY: I agree with your mother who said to you when you were young, "Don't buy me anything for Mother's Day—I don't need anything."

I am that kind of mother, too, and I'm sure there are many mothers just like me. Mother's Day (like Christmas) has become so commercialized it's lost its meaning. It's downright embarrassing to be bombarded on all sides with "gifts" just because a date was circled on the calendar, and all the ads have urged you to buy this and that for mother on "her" day.

I love spontaneous gifts at odd times which come to me only because one of my children saw something he thought I'd enjoy. Mother's Day hits me all wrong. Abby, it's how you treat your mother every day of the year that really counts.

There is something sad about the mother who is "honored" once a year. Her children buy her a corsage and take her out for Sunday dinner, but she sits and waits a whole year before they do it again.

A MOTHER

DEAR ABBY: That letter from the woman who wrote to say that her "mother" never missed an opportunity to remind her that she was adopted, hit a sympathetic note with me because my problem is just the opposite.

We have an adopted daughter who never misses an opportunity to remind us that she is adopted, so she is not really related to us.

Abby, we adopted her as a tiny baby, and she has meant the world to us. But we must have failed somewhere along the way because apparently we don't mean very much to her.

We have no grandchildren as yet, but if she marries and has children I am sure she will tell them that they aren't related to us either.

What can we say?

JUST A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You can say that no one picks his relatives—he has to take what he gets, whereas an adopted child is "chosen," so what's so special about being "related"?

DEAR ABBY: I'll bet I wasn't the only ex-wife "served" with a recent column of yours instead of a child support check. You stated that there was a 30 day "grace" period, and no ex-wife had a legal right to yell until her "ex" was 30 days late with the check.

Until your column appeared my "ex" was only two to three weeks late with his child support checks, but now I'll bet he'll be four.

My "ex" pays "horse support" first at nearby race tracks, and when he can't get there personally, he sends his contribution with his bookie. Bully for the guy who pays every week. I wish mine did.

"HOLES IN THE SHOES IN AKRON"

DEAR HOLES: Sorry about that, but I didn't recommend that all child-supporters wait four weeks. I simply published a letter from a reader who claimed that his lawyer advised him that his "ex" had no legal right to yell until he was 30 days late.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "Both Sides Now"—the girl who went from one affair to another, the average duration being two months, then (even with sex) she lost the fellow. She says she quit that kind of behavior, not because it's immoral, but because it's smart.

Like "Both Sides Now" I had several affairs of short duration but I don't go that route anymore. All I needed was the assurance that "everybody ISN'T doing it." Thank you so much for printing that letter.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Horoscope By SIDNEY OMARR It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY JUNE 21, 1969

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Whatever your age, study TEEN DATING HINTS. Be aware of need for moderation. Celebration should not be excuse for health abuse. Be moderate. Avoid insulting older person.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You gain greater recognition. Personal magnetism soars. Opposite sex finds you irresistible. Maintain balance. Be creative. Have fun without being extravagant.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Take time to correct faulty safety devices—includes those in automobile and home. Contact key persons for necessary tasks. Take initiative in insuring future security.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You move about; tendency is to be restless. Be sure you know where and why you are going. Heed intuitive impulse. One who lectures you may not have all the facts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): If careless about possessions, you lose them. Be especially wary while in transit. You can come up with valuable idea. Commit it to paper. Develop plans which heighten income potential.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Cycle high. Give special care to personal appearance. You may be called upon to speak before special group. Maintain poise. Important contact can be made today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Excellent evening for dining out, attending theater. Be firm against tendency to brood. Look to future instead of worrying about what has occurred. Shake off emotional lethargy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Fine for at-home entertaining. Gather friends around; display sense of humor. Many feel you have been too intense. Now show your lighter side.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Don't grab at first offer. Some are trying to rush you. Realize your own worth. Heed your own counsel. Wise course is to wait, observe. Avoid tenseness. Relax with one you can trust.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You get solid indication about efforts which have been in negotiation. Odds favor your side. Key is to keep communication lines clear. Be available for special consultation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Added financial responsibility is indicated. Mate or partner wants to make purchase, understand that implications may be far-reaching. Don't commit yourself to something you can't afford.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): New approach is favored, especially in advertising, public relations. Don't feel you are tied to past. Break through to direct, dynamic action.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have fine sense of humor. You are somewhat of a gourmet. Hold off on partnership proposal. Additional information will be forthcoming.

The bidding of today's hand is short and sweet. Anywhere from Maine to California, north to Alaska or west to Hawaii, South will open one no-trump. North will count carefully to make sure he really holds 22 high-card points, look hard at his partner to see if he is joking with his no-trump bid and then raise to seven.

The play will be a lot slower. Thirty-eight are supposed to be enough for seven, but these 38 only produce 12 sure tricks. South must locate the queen of spades to make his grand slam.

Any declarer will postpone his spade play until last and will surely start by cashing four diamonds. East will know his spade queen is the only honor held by his side. West should also figure his partner holds that queen. Otherwise, South would claim 13 top tricks.

Most defenders would hang on to their spades to the last. East would have to let one go eventually and when South got around to the final problem he would know that East had started with four spades and West with three. In the absence of any other indication, South would play East for the queen and make his contract.

Expert defenders would make things tougher for South. East and West would discard a spade each at the first opportunity. West's 2nd discard would be the deuce of hearts. After each one would follow suit on clubs and hearts with West carefully hanging on to the six of clubs.

South would have no way of knowing which opponent held the club six and might just as well toss a coin to decide how to play the spades.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

BUSY LIPS: (Q.) I like to make out a lot. I like to go out and have fun with boys. Different ones.

On Thursday I kissed a boy, and Friday and Saturday I kissed another. Sunday I went out with another boy but he didn't kiss me.

How can I keep from getting some mouth disease and yet keep going as I have been? Like I said, I do like to kiss, and I wouldn't like to have to stop.

The kind of kisses I like most are French kisses.—S. in San Antonio, Texas.

(A.) For a sweeter and cleaner mouth and lips, use a good strong mouth wash before and after kissing. You can even buy a small bottle to carry in your handbag.

But I strongly urge you to be more selective in your kissing. Indiscriminate kissing can lead to much more than a disease. At the rate you're going, I am much more concerned about major trouble for you than I am about a minor mouth infection.

GROUP 12: (Q.) I'm in the seventh grade. They group us. We have a 7-1, a 7-2, a 7-3, and so on. It goes all the way to 7-13.

I'm in 7-12, and everybody says I'm in the dumb class. I'm not dumb. My average is 83.3.

Some kids are in higher groups and get lower marks.—A Reader in Scranton, Pa.

(A.) A special grouping in schools is designed to do the best possible job teaching a wide variety of students with varying characteristics. It should not be misconstrued as branding anyone as dumb.

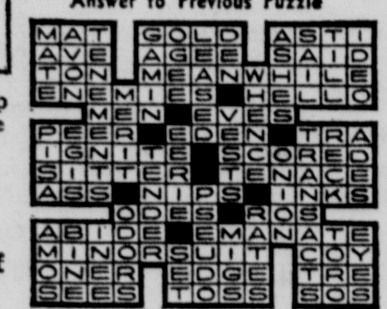

So stop fretting. With an 83.3 average, you're too smart to fall for dumb jokes.

Some of the most dynamic and outstanding adults I know today were average students. Some were even below average. It's what you do with what you've got that counts.

Nixon's Format: Slight Change

NEW YORK (AP) — There was a slight change in the format of President Nixon's news conference as it appeared live on the television networks Thursday night.

The President was—as usual, standing alone against a blue backdrop, but the home viewers had a better chance to see the assembled newsmen and women as they asked their questions.

Nixon handled confidently a wide assortment of queries—ranging from Vietnam to Paris, from campus disorders to New York City politics. The program was timed to one-half hour and went on and off with the precision of a commercial program.

Once is usually enough when to watch most television entertainment shows, but the Thursday night rerun of NBC's "Ironside" was worth a second inspection of its most ingenious script. It utilized, with full credit, one of the most famous real-life British murder stories. It was a contemporary reconstruction of the foul deed of Dr. Crippen who in the gaslight days disposed of an unwanted wife in his cellar.

In the "Ironside" version, a 1969 wife-murderer used the Crippen plan as his own blueprint for homicide. To inject a comedy note in generally grisly business, the crime was uncovered by amateur sleuths, a group of septuagenarians who were members of the victim's bridge club.

This was followed by a rerun of "Dragnet," which showed how Los Angeles police trained a police dog to sniff out concealed marijuana. The going was pretty thin for the human actors, but Ginger, the canine star, was very convincing.

NBC is announcing some of its major specials for next season.

Leave Behind 146 Bodies

N. Viet Troops Leave Tay Ninh City

EVIDENCE — Rock singer Barry Gibb of the BeeGees pulls up his left sleeve to show the $7,200 diamond-and-ruby-studded wristwatch that he got him into trouble when he tried to re-enter England without declaring the watch at customs. Gibb was fined $4,800 for evading customs duty. (UPI CABLEPHOTO).

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. headquarters today reported North Vietnamese troops had pulled back, temporarily at least, from their drive into Tay Ninh City and its suburbs 50 miles northwest of Saigon.

The Communists left behind 146 bodies from three battles Thursday in which U.S. and South Vietnamese troops summoned tanks and helicopter gunships to rout them, military spokesmen said.

At least two Americans died and 13 were wounded in the fighting near a temple of the Cao Dai religious sect in the northwestern sector of town and in two battles on the southern outskirts of the city.

Second Attempt To Invade

It was the second Communist attempt in two weeks to invade the city. South Vietnam's fourth largest with a population of 150,000. The first ended with the Communists withdrawing under bombardment June 8.

This time there were three separate fights, the announcement said—two of them south of town which killed 128 North Vietnamese and a third in a residential district near the temple which killed 18.

American B52 bombers swept the area after the fighting broke off after dark and bombarded an infiltration route eight miles northwest of Tay Ninh City, which is near the Cambodian border.

U.S. intelligence officers saw such attacks as the one against Tay Ninh City and the nightly Communist shelling as an attempt to turn American public opinion against the war more.

Keep Up Shelling

The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese kept up their wave of rocket and mortar salvos overnight, hitting 40 towns and bases and causing overall light damage, according to the American military command. "The Communists want a political, not military, victory here to influence the Paris talks," a U.S. official said.

"They have seen the American public's reaction to increased U.S. casualties."

President Nixon said Thursday he hoped 200,000 U.S. combat troops could be withdrawn from the war by the end of 1970, leaving behind support units with artillery, helicopter gunships and warplanes.

In his nationally televised news conference, Nixon also said he hoped to see progress in the Vietnam talks within two or three months, having primed the pump himself with the announcement three weeks ago that 25,000 GIs were leaving the war zone before September.

Latest Session Is One of Longest

PARIS (UPI)—Allied and Communist delegates to the Vietnam peace talks conferred in one of their longest semisecret negotiating sessions yet in Thursday's 22nd formal meeting.

President Nixon said in Washington he hoped to see some progress in the talks within the next two to three months. He did not elaborate. Lawrence E. Walsh, acting head of the U.S. negotiating team, said the exchange

Thursday between the four delegations was "extensive." Asked if he considered it "a day of no progress," Walsh replied "on a day-to-day basis, I don't think progress can be measured."

The prepared statements of the four delegations in the formal sessions are made public but the exchanges between negotiators that follow are not. It was this semisecret period which lasted longer than most such sessions since the talks began.

In the main section of the talks Thursday, the United States and South Vietnamese challenged the Communist side to submit its claims of popular support to the test of free and internationally supervised elections.

The Viet Cong and North Vietnamese said they reject international supervision of any elections in South Vietnam. "This is an internal affair of the people of South Vietnam," a Hanoi spokesman said.

In Washington, Nixon urged the Communists to accept international supervision of elections. He pledged that the United States would accept whatever political situation

French Flags Flying, Pompidou Takes Over

PARIS (UPI) — Frenchmen displayed their tricolor flags in abundance today to celebrate the formal inauguration of Georges Pompidou as the nation's 19th president.

The 57-year-old former premier formally was taking over as chief executive in a 30-minute ceremony at the Elysee Palace without the pomp and fanfare familiar to American presidential inaugurations.

The red, white and blue French flag flew on public buildings, banks, offices and even buses as Frenchmen celebrated the start of another seven years of Gaullism without Charles de Gaulle.

The 78-year-old former president, who taught Pompidou his politics during their 25-year friendship, was at his country home at Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises, 100 miles outside Paris. He was not taking part in any of the ceremonies installing his successor.

Pompidou officially became president at 5:03 p.m. Thursday when the constitutional council formally proclaimed him the winner of last Sunday's runoff election.

Later, Pompidou was to lay a wreath on the tomb of France's Unknown Soldier beneath the Arc de Triomphe and be honored at a Hotel de Ville (City Hall) reception.

The protocol used today had to be designed specifically for the occasion because there was no real precedent for the ceremonies under the Fifth Republic. Pompidou was taking over from interim President Alain Poper, the man he defeated in the runoff.

When De Gaulle took over at the end of 1958, he had a predecessor, President Rene Coty, to transfer powers to him. At the beginning of his second term in 1965, De Gaulle succeeded himself.
